WARM, SUNNY WEATHER SEEN FOR MAY 24

Sunny skies with a temperature of about 60 was predicted for May 24 today by the weather man on Gonzales Hill.

While weak disturbances were expected to bring rain to northern portions of the island, Victoria should enjoy clear weather for the holiday celebrations.

Records show that it seldom rains here on May 24. "In the past 53 years it has only rained 15 times on Victoria Day," the weather man said.

At the retail level, the order will apply to wines, beer, liquors, soft drinks, ice cream, toys, hardware in general, heavy home appliances such as stoves, refrigerators and washing machines, mill-work and lumber and many other items.

Reds Massing To Renew Offensive; Bradley Sees Peace If Push Fails

General Back On Stand

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley said today Korean strategy has been keyed to the hope peace negotiations might follow if United Nations troops could "bump off" this spring's Communist offensive.

Bradley told senators that as early as February this possibility was discussed by the military joint chiefs of staff.

He related: "At that time we were reasonably sure a new attack would come sometime in the spring, and if you can bump that off, as it were, you are in a much better position to negotiate than you would be if you couldn't contain it."

OUTLINES OBJECTIVE

He also said the United Nations forces do not intend to drive the Chinese Communists and North Koreans all the way out of Korea.

He said this is the objective. "We are trying to inflict maximum casualties with a minimum to ourselves, so that we can get some kind of a negotiation."

Bradley told senators yesterday the joint chiefs of staff had approved in December, 1949, a recommendation for a "modest" program of military aid to Chiang Kai Shek's Nationalist troops in Formosa.

Truman upset with a statement Jan. 6, 1950, that the United States was not going to give any further military aid to Chiang, Bradley said.

Bradley agreed with Smith's statement there was "a conflict of view between the joint chiefs and the State Department" on Formosa late in 1949.

Red Batteries Kill Two Men On U.S. Ships

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Navy today disclosed that two men were killed and 13 wounded when the battleship New Jersey and the destroyer Brinkley Bass were hit by Communist shore batteries of the east coast Korean port of Wonsan.

Wonsan has been under naval bombardment for more than two months. The Navy said the New Jersey was hit on the number one turret on Monday.

The casualties were one dead and three wounded. The Brinkley Bass was hit the day before by a shore battery and had one dead and ten wounded.

The New Jersey, demobilized only a few months ago, has replaced the battleship Missouri in Korean waters.

Protest Cutting Of Rail Service

DUNCAN (CP)—A protest against the suggested abandonment of passenger service by the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway was planned today by the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association.

The group will meet at Nanaimo June 16. George E. Bonner of Cobble Hill, president of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association, said his organization would demand that the service be increased, rather than suspended. A brief will be prepared for presentation to the Board of Railway Commissioners.

Mr. Bonner said A. J. Cowie, superintendent of the railway company, will be invited to attend the Nanaimo meeting.

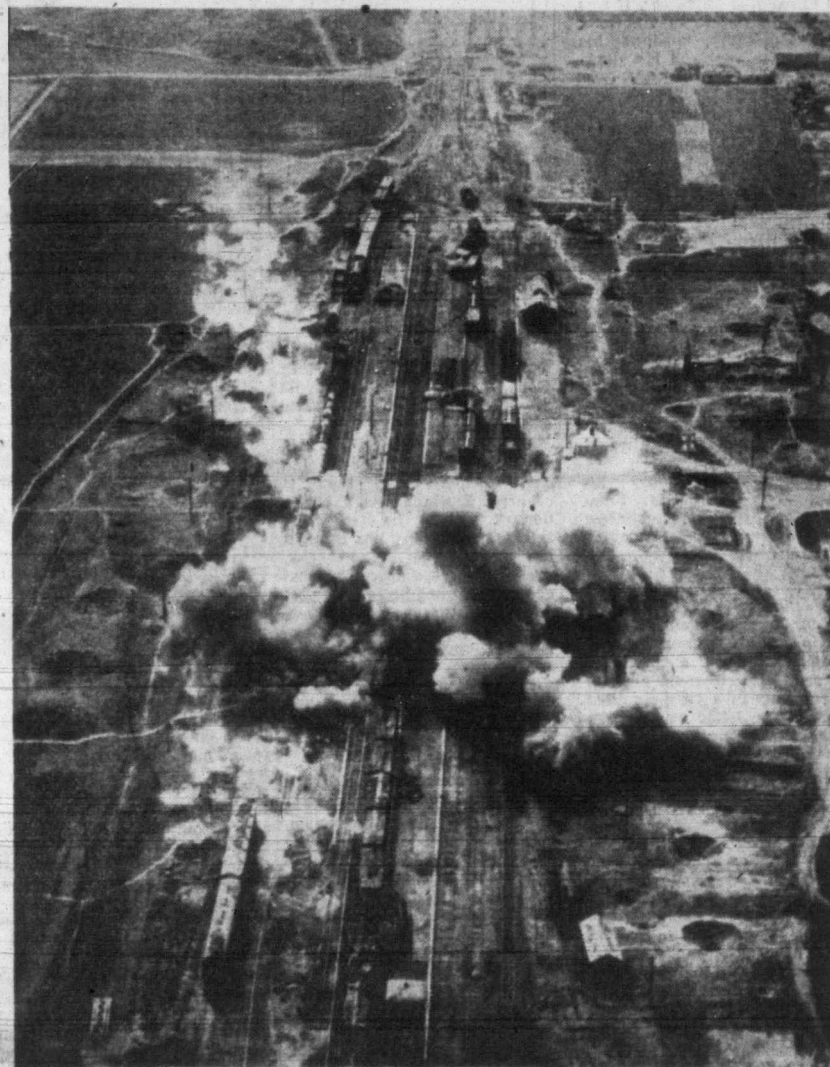

Announce Boost In Sugar Price

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Sugar Refinery Ltd. today announced a price increase of 20 cents a hundred-weight refined sugar.

Deeley said the companies were informed Monday that the seamen had voted by a large majority in favor of a strike, and that the companies countered with a new offer.

He said the new proposal is for a $13.57 monthly wage increase, retroactive to March 1, and a 11-cent-an-hour, boost in overtime rates, also retroactive to March 1.

The companies also have offered a 40-hour week as from Jan. 1, 1952, and a cost-of-living clause.

One Reason Why Reds' Offensive Unsuccessful

It is expected that the addresses will be available in about two weeks, and will be distributed free. Organizations wishing copies should communicate with the Times.

8 Feared Dead In Floods At Hays, Kansas

HAYS, Kas. (AP)—The worst flash flood since 1907 swept into Hays today and three persons are known to have been drowned. Several others were reported missing, five of whom may have perished.

A gas explosion and 7,000 gallons of floating gasoline added to the danger. Waters from a cloudburst poured into the south end of this Northwestern Kansas town of 8,000 population. The water was 15 to 20 feet deep in the south-east and southeast sections and about 3,000 to 4,000 persons were flooded out of their homes.

Victorian Saves Girl From Falls

NANAIMO (CP)—Five-year-old Donna Lee Newsome of Departure Bay was swept over the 20-foot Millstream Falls here.

But she was found to be suffering only bruises and scratches when rescued from a deep pool by Alvin Hyde of Victoria.

Donna's mother was a horrified witness as the little girl slipped on slime-covered rocks and plunged into the water.

Near Riots In Iran; Reds Shout 'Death' To Premier

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Supporters of Nationalist Premier F. Mohammed Mossadegh clashed today with demonstrators at a Communist-backed railway union rally called to denounce Mossadegh's government.

Fists flew in Parliament square as the angry unionists attacked a small group who invaded the area shouting "Long live Mossadegh!"

The cry of "Death to Mossadegh!" went up from the ranks of the union.

The Premier, swept into office three weeks ago by the popular clamor for nationalization of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, may have heard the denunciation of his government.

He is barricaded behind locked doors in an improvised office in the rear of the Parliament building, claiming threats have been made against his life.

The demonstration was the first public attack on Mossadegh, and pointed up Communist opposition to the Nationalist premier.

Speakers at the rally accused the Premier of continuing the reign of corrupt politicians and dragging his feet on reforms, including nationalization.

Meanwhile, Iran's Moslem religious leaders and her Communist underground—both sworn to drive foreign interests out of their land—called mass rallies today to fan growing resentment against Britain and the U.S.

Biggest Man-Made Non-Atomic Blast

DUGWAY, Utah (UP)—A carefully measured explosion of 320,000 pounds of T.N.T. today tore a gaping hole in the western Utah desert and sent clouds of black smoke and white clay dust more than 2,000 feet in the air.

The blast of 160 tons of powder was the largest ever made underground without the use of atomic energy.

The thunderous roar signalled the climax of an army experiment to determine the behavior of underground shock waves and their effect on possible military and civilian structures.

Next Attack Might Be Biggest Yet

TOKYO (AP)—Maj.-Gen. Clark I. Ruffner said today his United States 2nd Division has broken the back of the Communist offensive on the east-central Korean front.

However, powerful Red forces were reported massing for a new assault on this unyielding hump in the United Nations line.

They continued probing but shifted their heaviest efforts to a penetration southeast of the 2nd Division. Communists also resisted stubbornly immediately to the southwest of the division. Both were deep penetrations. Elsewhere the Reds pulled back.

The 2nd smashed probing attacks through the night and early morning, underscoring Ruffner's words:

"The boys have stopped them cold. The Red units in front of us now are no longer capable of launching a potent attack."

However, U.S. 8th Army briefing officers said the Reds have massed an estimated 130,000 troops on that front for a possible new strike. AP correspondent William C. Barnard reported more Chinese were streaming south across the 38th Parallel.

He quoted a spokesman on the east-central front as saying the Reds may be preparing for an attack as big or bigger than the one launched last Wednesday.

That offensive cost the Reds 60,000 casualties in five days, American officers said. U.N. casualties were placed at 1,618, including 960 American.

A south Korean force in the far west pushed within eight miles of the 38th Parallel. U.N. troops recaptured Musan and Uijongbu, north of Seoul.

But the Reds appeared to be shifting their weight eastward rather than making a general withdrawal.

AIR UPGRADE GOOD

The 2nd Division was aided by round-the-clock air support. Planes were at it again today despite unfavorable weather. During the night B-29's dropped 840 bombs on the Red front lines.

The Far East Air Forces said its daytime raiders inflicted 750 Red casualties. The navy reported its carrier based planes accounted for 650 more.

Allied planes hammered at Reds reported streaming southward down the Hwachon-Chuncheon and Inje-Hangye highways.

To the east, Communists pushed back South Koreans around Sokka. They have penetrated southwest of the highway town to a point 25 miles south of Parallel 38 and 25 miles from the east coast.

Heavy fighting was reported in the mountainous area. American troops had been shifted to close a Communist infiltration route between Sokka and Pungnam, held by the 2nd Division.

Manchester Dockers To Defy Work Order

MANCHESTER, Eng. (Reuters)—Leaders of 2,300 striking Manchester dock workers announced today they will defy an ultimatum to go back to work or find themselves new jobs.

Only three men turned up at the dock gates after the new move by the National Dock Labor Board. The strike, which has paralyzed Manchester docks for 27 days, started because two men were suspended when they refused overtime work. Thirty-six ships are held up.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

RUBBER AND RHETORIC

LONDON. THIS VISIT to England is developing into a sort of "busman's holiday" for me, for I have twice been in the House of Commons in one week, and the special pass giving me the entire to its precincts at any time is likely to tempt me often. The first taste I had of the deliberations, to which I referred in an earlier column, was an appetizing, titillating appetizer, to the feast to come, for we were so fortunate on our second visit as to strike the very day when Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill made his attack on the Government's policy of permitting rubber to go to China—an attack which evidently struck home, for a few hours later it was announced that these rubber exports would cease immediately.

CHURCHILL IN FORM

MR. CHURCHILL, who arrived in the House after attending a luncheon at the Guildhall in honor of King Frederik of Denmark, was obviously in fine form, his glib countenance, with the wicked twinkle in his eye, reminding me of a schoolboy bent on mischief. At other times, as he sank down in his seat, on the points he made, as space does not permit. But in emphasizing his contention that, while an embargo on rubber shipments to China was important, it was even more important to Britain and the world that nothing should be done to upset Anglo-American amity, he showed his superb mastery of words, his rapier-like wit—and his showmanship.

CLEAR-CUT MIND

IN SIR HARTLEY SHAWCROSS, former Attorney-General who has succeeded to the Presidency of the Board of Trade, from which Rt. Hon. Harold Wilson recently resigned, Mr. Churchill had a formidable but evidently respected opponent. After denouncing the failure of Prime Minister Attlee and Minister of Defence Shinwell to halt the flow of strategic materials to China, "Winnie" paid a graceful tribute to Sir Hartley's "clear-cut and learned mind which now has been turned on the problem."

Then he cast aside the velvet glove and showed the mailed fist in ruthlessly dealing with the Defence Minister when Mr. Shinwell, who was sitting far down in the Treasury benches, interrupted with a derogatory comment, which I couldn't hear. The Leader of the Opposition turned on him with a caustic comment to the effect that "the Rt. Hon. gentleman was right in taking a back seat. He had better do so... in the light of the statement he made the other day, at a most disturbed moment in North Korea, that perhaps things would be better with General MacArthur removed."

By this time the House was in an uproar, with angry cries and counter-cries from both sides. Above the din Mr. Shinwell could be heard demanding Mr. Churchill to "withdraw that utterly false statement" and challenging the Leader of the Opposition to produce written evidence to prove it.

MORE UPROAR

MR. CHURCHILL refused to withdraw, but promised to produce the newspaper. When Mr. Shinwell again arose to tell Mr. Churchill he "ought to be ashamed of himself," shouts of "sit down" from the Opposition benches and a variety of jeering remarks from the Government side enhanced the din.

Later, while Sir Hartley was replying, in a very dignified statement, to Mr. Churchill's charges, the latter went to the door of the House and came back flourishing a newspaper. Whereupon pandemonium again broke loose. As he sent it across to Mr. Shinwell, who seized upon it avidly, a Conservative member rose to a point of order on the grounds that the reading of newspapers contravened the rules.

BELOW THE BELT

AS IN VIEW of Mr. Churchill's own action in handing over the paper, this seemed rather like hitting below the belt, I wasn't surprised when an irate Labor member shouted that he should be called to order rather than Mr. Shinwell. As the uproar became worse, Sir Hartley intervened to remind the House that as his statement was of such gravity, he deplored the unseemly and vulgar interruptions, and suggested that he be allowed to proceed undisturbed—an observation which met with loud "hear, hear's," from Lord Winterton and many other Conservatives as well as Labor members.

Altogether the performance, while it had its entertaining and intriguing side, was hardly in conformity with the dignity and decorum one would expect of the mature "Mother of Parliaments."

SOCCER FIRST TOPIC

Soviets' Interest In World Affairs Second

(This is how Moscow looks to the A.P. Editor, Gilmore, who is in the city after eight months in the United States and France. Gilmore was stationed in Moscow since 1941. This dispatch was subject to the usual Soviet censorship.)

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—Eight months has made a difference in 800-year-old Moscow. The skyline has shot up closer to the heavens. The city is greener and the lights on some streets definitely brighter.

The day's burning topic still seems to be soccer. The first question a Russian taxi driver asked me as I returned to the Soviet capital after nearly eight months in the United States and Paris was: "Did you hear today's football score?"

The cold war also is a topic. The conference of Foreign Ministers' Deputies in Paris, American rearmament, the Atlantic Alliance, President Truman, U.S. Secretary Dean Acheson, the U.S. Congress and the Korean war come in for lively comment.

But certainly there seems to be no war scare here, or among the few Russians with whom I talked at the Leningrad airport.

At the moment, people are making extensive plans for summer vacations. Children are looking forward to the end of the month, when school closes.

There is keen interest in next year's Olympic Games, in which the U.S.S.R. will be a big competitor. (It is the first time for the Soviet Union.)

Each time one returns to the Soviet Union, one cannot help be impressed by the age-old kindness of the Russian people. Customs officials in Leningrad were considerate and quick. When they asked if I did not want a glass of tea in the airport restaurant, I replied that I had no Soviet money in my pockets, and was told: "Oh, that's all right, you can pay for that some other time."

Pats Find Korean Flora Similar To Canada's

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA (CP)—A countryside pulsating with life now that spring is here fascinates many Canadians in Korea.

Lieut. Murray Edwards of Kelowna, B.C., scanning the countryside as he goes about his duties with the 2nd Battalion P.P.C.L.I., has found Korea's wild life abundantly similar to Canada's.

And for disbelievers who still find this an altogether "different" if increasingly beautiful country, Edwards has a collection of flowers he has come across since spring has brought the landscape to life.

The 31-year-old officer, who at one time worked in Toronto post office and was an army personnel selection officer before joining the Orient a hobby begun as a boy back home.

Flowers have been his continuous study, and he has drawn, painted, photographed, collected and pressed them.

MOST FOUND IN CANADA

Of 18 varieties of wild flowers in Edwards' Korean collection, he says all but two or three are found in Canada.

Included among the specimens are white, blue and dog-tooth violets, trillium, buttercup and dandelion. He has found wild strawberry blossom identical with Canada's, and narrow blue flag-lilies.

Azaleas abound in the hills with a profusion that rivals the "corniches" of the French Riviera.

The azaleas have special significance for Koreans, who call it the "true flower." It symbolizes fidelity, and friends—male as well as female—sweethearts and members of families present one another with great bouquets of it, swearing fidelity to the relationship in flowers.

Edwards is so convinced that the similarities between Korean and Canadian wild flowers are even more extensive than in the examples that he has sent home for his flower book.

Also a tree-spotter, he has identified, among others, chestnut, beech, pine and cedar. Cultured fruit trees here include the apple, peach, pear and cherry.

Not that Korea is extensively treed. Its bald hills and mountains, covered usually with scrub growth, are eloquent of the need for reforestation. But where trees grow the similarities are there.

Breath-takingly colorful and majestic is the Korean pheasant, plentiful in many of the areas through which the battalion has moved.

So are snakes. Sgt. Frank Taylor of Montreal, field hygiene specialist, has been warning Canadians against a poisonous variety about two feet long found in the hills. Many Koreans, most of whom walk barefoot in summer, die annually of snake-bite. Taylor's teaching is to slash the wound with a knife and encourage bleeding and to suck it. The combination of drainage and suction on the spot should remove most of the danger, he says.

Plan To Mobilize Free World's Oil Resources

U.S. May Suggest Petroleum Planning Board For Atlantic Pact Countries, Says Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States may propose that the 12 Atlantic Pact countries create a petroleum planning board to mobilize the free world's oil resources in event of war.

Such a board would try to make certain the North Atlantic Pact armies, navies and air forces had quick access to enough oil to fight a war in any area.

Informed officials told a reporter plans for establishing the petroleum board now are being discussed by the State and Defense Departments and other government agencies.

The move toward advance planning in the oil field comes at a time when Iran is demanding nationalization of the rich Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. It also coincides with unrest and increased pressure by Middle Eastern governments where western countries have important oil concessions.

Spaniards Stay Off Jobs In Living Cost Protest

MADRID (AP) — Madrid's workers went on strike today — but only indirectly — against the high cost of living.

Braving an overwhelming display of government force and harsh official threats that those late to work or absent would be fired, an estimated 95 per cent of the normal bus, street car and subway riders boycotted the public transport system.

As far as could be learned, the call for a general strike in Spain's capital had not been heeded, but the workers obeyed appeals in pamphlets issued here for the last two weeks and walked to their jobs.

No disorders were reported. Reinforced army and police units patrolled at the ready to break any signs of a strike.

The stern government measures were ordered in an effort to halt the wave of social unrest which began with a general strike in Barcelona in March.

Refuses To Quash Match Trust Case

MONTREAL (CP) — Mr. Justice Valmore Blennvenue Monday turned down a motion to quash the indictment against five Canadian match companies accused of operating a combine.

The trial was adjourned until today after His Lordship's ruling.

The defendant companies are Eddy Match Co. Ltd., Commonwealth Match Co. Ltd., Canada Match Co. Ltd., Federal Match Co. Ltd., and Valcourt Company.

VICTORIA UNIT VITAL

R.C.A.F. To 'Defend' Island In Exercise

Victoria's 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Unit, R.C.A.F. Reserve, will play an important part when Western Canada's reserve air forces will "defend" the West Coast from a mythical amphibious invasion, July 1 to 15.

Plans for the operation were announced in Edmonton.

The "invasion" aimed at sealing off Puget Sound and with a view to capture of Victoria and Esquimalt naval base, and defence activity, will take place during the annual summer reserve camp at Abbotsford.

Group Captain M. P. Martyn, Northwest Air Command senior staff officer, will command the manoeuvres.

Squadron Leader P. D. P. Holmes commands the Victoria A. C. and W. unit.

"We will presume that amphibious landings have been made at points on the West Coast of Vancouver Island by a mythical enemy attempting to capture Victoria and Esquimalt and isolate the Puget Sound area," Martyn said in a British United Press dispatch.

The reserve units will attempt to establish "air superiority" in Southern British Columbia, provide effective air defence for Greater Vancouver, carry out reconnaissance of Southern British Columbia, seal off the land battle area and provide offensive air support for ground forces, Martyn said.

AIRWOMEN GET NEW MILLINERY

LONDON (AP) — Britain went on a millinery spree today in a morale boosting program for members of its women's Royal Air Force. It gave all 10,900 of the girls new hats.

The new blue headgear is made of blocked fur felt with a small peak. The old hats were of shapeless soft cloth.

China Gets No Malaya Rubber

SINGAPORE (AP) — British Malaya — which has sold more than 120,000 tons of rubber to Communist China since the outbreak of the Korean war — today announced the ban on any more shipment of that vital product to the Chinese Reds.

The embargo was revealed by both the Crown Colony of Singapore and the companion Government of the Federation of Malaya at Kuala Lumpur. The mainland Federation produces the rubber — Singapore ships most of it.

The British Government had requested the ban. The United Nations General Assembly last Friday asked for a global embargo of arms, ammunition and war materials against Red China.

Victim Of 'Name' Users Says Ferrer

Actor Tells House Un-American Group He Never Was Communist

WASHINGTON (UP) — Academy Award actor Jose Ferrer told the House Un-American activities committee today he was never a Communist nor fellow traveler, but a victim of Communist big-game hunters.

The Puerto Rican-born actor said he has never been a member of the Communist Party, a sympathizer or encourager of Communist aims.

"The only time would be when the Communist aim coincided with the aim of our government," Ferrer said.

But he told the committee the "general technique" of how he came to be listed as sponsor of the group's literature read "for a second front this year."

As an example he cited the "artists' front to win the war," in which he was listed as a sponsor in 1942. The committee said the group's literature read "for a second front this year."

Committee Counsel Frank S.

Tavener Jr. said that was the Communist Party line.

Ferrer said he did not know at the time that the group was a Communist front, and gave this brief explanation of how a name gets connected with such organizations:

"They come to you and say, 'You know the "second front" would be helpful in expediting the war.' You allow yourself to be a political observer of some sagacity and say 'yes.'"

"They show you a list of distinguished people gathered together for this purpose, and you say, 'All right, you can use my name if you want to.'"

Ferrer said he had no recollection of allowing use of his name for the Artists' Front to Win the War but "it is entirely possible and even probable that the listing of my name was legitimate and even authorized."

DEDUCTIONS AT SOURCE UPPEL

OTTAWA (CP) — Starting July 1, when new income tax rates go into effect, employees will pay nearly all of their income tax through deductions at source.

Previously, the Government collected about 95 or 96 per cent of the income tax by employer deductions. This percentage will move up to more than 97 per cent and in many cases, 100 per cent.

New schedules — some 300,000 — have gone out to district income tax offices for distribution to employers. The tables incorporate the new 20 per cent "defence surcharge" the tax increase announced by Finance Minister Abbott in his recent budget.

NATIONAL FLAG MOVE REJECTED BY J.C. OF C.

QUEBEC (CP) — The 16th annual convention of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada Monday rejected a resolution calling for adoption of a national flag for Canada distinct from all others.

The junior chamber had previously approved the principle of a national flag but voted down one resolution sponsored by two Quebec Province chambers, from Beauharnois and Levis.

It asked chamber approval for a "flag which will bear its own emblem distinct from all others and that the above-mentioned decision be made known to the Government of Canada as soon as possible."

Probe Ship Crash

SEATTLE (AP) — Military boards of inquiry probed Monday to find what caused an Orient-bound troopship and a heavily loaded tanker — both radar-equipped — to collide in the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

All the elements of tragedy were poised when the two ships met in a sudden, grinding crash before dusk Sunday night 60 miles from the mouth of the Strait.

But no one was hurt and the ships were able to reach port under their own power. Mariners called it "luck and the grace of God."

R.O.K. Gets Worst Of It

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea (AP) — The Chief of Staff of the South Korean Army said today the Chinese Communists have aimed their heaviest blows at his troops in an effort to destroy American faith in their fighting ability.

The Falling Tide

BEHIND THE DISAGREEMENTS of last week's C.C.F. conference in Vancouver a much larger current of events can be discerned. The Socialist movement in British Columbia is not suffering from some isolated dilemma but from the decline of socialism throughout the English-speaking world.

When socialist parties were elected to govern New Zealand, Australia and finally Britain, the C.C.F. hailed their victories as the wave of the future. Mr. Coldwell was never tired of declaring that these socialist governments were the counterparts and spiritual brothers of the C.C.F. in Canada and that the wave would engulf this country in due time.

Now, when the wave is receding, Mr. Coldwell is understandably silent about it. He can no longer point with pride to the achievements of his friends overseas when the intelligent electorates of New Zealand and Australia have hurled the socialists from office and when the British Labor Government is clearly in extremis, split and headed toward defeat.

Mr. Coldwell cannot argue either that socialism only needs a chance in office to demonstrate its superiority over any other system, for socialism has been tried in office by the peoples of New Zealand, Australia and Britain, and they have found it wanting.

Fortunately, except in Saskatchewan (where the Douglas Government is in extremis also) Canada has escaped a similar socialist experiment. It would be quite unfair to say that Canada's present position, so much more fortunate in every respect than that of Britain and the two Dominions which have tried socialism, is due entirely to the absence of socialism here. We prosper mainly through our unequalled resources, given to us not by any government or system but by nature. Nevertheless, for all our mistakes, we have used those resources, through the skill and drive of free en-

The Partners' Resources

A STRUGGLE BETWEEN PARTNERS for raw materials is the gravest present danger to the rearmament of the free world. All the nations of the North Atlantic Treaty and their friends in the Near East and the Far East are desperately seeking materials for armaments and for consumers. Each, in fact, is trying to live beyond the means of the grand alliance. The immediate result is shortages and rising prices. The larger result, if this process is not arrested, could be fatal damage to the rearmament program.

All this was foreseen months ago by the Council of the Organization for European Economic Co-operation which, since the war, has been generally supervising the recovery of Europe. Nine months ago, when it realized the dimensions of the Korean war, the O.E.E.C. urged the free nations individually to fight inflation at home and to pool their essential defence materials.

Only in the last few weeks can it be said that this advice has been followed. The United States and Canada launched a policy of monetary deflation at the beginning of March, the outcome of which is not yet clear. A board has been established in Washington through which scarce materials are to be allocated among the allies but so far it has made little progress in reconciling their rival claims. The position of Britain is the chief cause of alarm. Very unwisely, as it now turns out, the British Government refused last year to spend its mounting accumulation of gold and dollars to stockpile materials. Today, as a result, it has ample money but is short of goods, while other nations—notably Western Germany—spent their money before goods became scarce and prices rose to new highs.

The United States Government has adopted an intelligent and generous attitude toward its chief ally and is working on plans to sell Britain the materials it needs. Without such steps the whole British rearmament program would be endangered a few months hence.

By its own huge stockpiling the United States has contributed greatly to shortages and to international inflation. Some easing of the stockpile process will be necessary to share supplies with other nations.

On the other hand, having launched a policy of deflation, the United States has the right to expect its friends to do likewise lest their rising prices further bid up world prices at large. Only by stronger economic co-operation, paralleling the co-operation in armaments, can the free world hope to make good its defence.

The tide of socialism in the free world has been sinking for several years. The subsidence and internal troubles of the C.C.F. in British Columbia are part of this general recession. The C.C.F. cannot hope to win an election here in the visible future, but the other parties can destroy themselves. That, and not its own policies, is the only hope of the C.C.F. No one knows it better than Mr. Winch.

Very unwisely, as it now turns out, the British Government refused last year to spend its mounting accumulation of gold and dollars to stockpile materials. Today, as a result, it has ample money but is short of goods, while other nations—notably Western Germany—spent their money before goods became scarce and prices rose to new highs.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

I SEE IN THE almanac that tomorrow is the 14th anniversary of the death of John D. Rockefeller. Well, that's all right with me. I don't know the proper way of celebrating such an event... even the almanac doesn't know. But that's all right with me, too. The heck with it. I know only one thing about John D., and that is a piece of curious information passed on by my aunt's Scottish chauffeur.

Brock was the other way round... noisy but glum, if you follow me. Anyway, he was a lot of fun for those who were interested in eccentrics (as we all should be).

ONE DAY he was driving my aunt, and with a fine disregard for the traffic just ahead, he turned completely round and said "Mrs. Primrose, did ye ever think of gassoline?" My aunt said yes, she had often thought about gasoline, especially when paying for it, though she had never exactly brooded about the stuff. "Well," said the chauffeur, "I was jist thinkin' tae maseelf... there's gassoline... as pure as the air. And it should be as free as the air, too, if it wasn't for yon man Rockefeller." The cream of this joke is that there wouldn't have been jobs for chauffeurs half so soon if it hadn't been for yon man Rockefeller.

THE BIG TEST

THIS CHAUFFEUR became a driver more or less by accident. And when I used the word accident, I included traffic mishaps. He had been a handyman to my uncle, and when my uncle bought his first car, he decided that the handyman should learn to drive it. The police were then invited to take the chap out for a test. In those days in Toronto, a driver's test was a real adventure. All kinds of emergencies were engineered by the ingenious cops, to see how the candidate would react. Unknown to the poor head-of-man, there was a police car ahead of him. From this car a plainclothesman hurled a dummy right in his path. In theory, he was supposed to apply the brakes and avoid running over the dummy. (Just what a dummy was supposed to be doing, diving through a car window like that into a busy street, was never made plain by the police. It's the sort of thing that doesn't happen in real life.)

WELL, THE poor old Scots handy-man was absolutely panicky when he saw what he believed to be a fellow creature plunging out of the car ahead. Owing to the state of his emotions, he forgot all about brakes and ran over the dummy in fine style. Then, realizing he had killed a man, he put on the brakes so hard that the officer beside him nearly dived through the windshield. And then, by some brilliant inspiration of his own, he slammed the gears into reverse and backed over the dummy again. An ordinary man can die only once, but that dummy died twice. The chauffeur had to take his test twice, too.

THE UNION JACK AS IS MY CUSTOM, I got into an argument the other day. This time it was about who can fly the Union Jack, and where. My opponent said it is the British flag, and anyone British can fly it. I claimed it is the King's flag, not that of his subjects, and even the King can't fly it wherever he likes. I then looked the subject up (as best I could) and I find he was both right. Whichever, of course, is a very bad end to any argument, with nobody winning or losing.

BY CUSTOM (which amounts to law in British lands) we can all fly the Union Jack. Also there are various British parliamentary decisions about it, which are binding enough in Great Britain, if not here, since Parliament is the King's master and everyone else's. So my opponent was right enough. But he was also wrong. The College of Heralds has always held and still holds that the Union Jack is the King's, not ours. And that he can fly it only on his forts and castles. For example, he can fly it on Windsor Castle, but not on Buckingham Palace. And on the advice of his heralds, he does NOT fly it on Buckingham Palace. Now, it may be possible for the heralds to make a foolish decision. But it is not possible for Parliament or any other body to override them on questions of heraldry. Parliament (British or Canadian) has no power to tell the College of Heralds what is good heraldry and what is bad. What the College of Heralds says, goes. Three of the officers of the College are called kings. They are Kings of Arms. And in their own field they are a great deal more absolute than ordinary monarchs of today.

Spoken And Written

New York Times

By the time a man gets on in years, say 40, he has probably made his peace with the vagaries of the English language and no longer thinks about them. He accepts the fact that a lot of English words that sound one way are spelled another way. He accepts the fact that he can either spell all the words he uses or he can't.

He may write chronically "miscellaneous," "laboratory," or "redeve" and think nothing of it, for those misspellings haven't stood in the way of his marrying the girl he wanted, driving the car he wanted, or getting on in business—unless his business be proofreading.

Occasionally he may read of hopes and even campaigns to simplify the spelling of English. He pays little attention to those campaigns and dismisses them as the work of crackpots who want to overthrow the established order and its landmarks and are probably left-wingers, ripe for Congressional investigation. Suddenly, overnight, this conservative citizen can become the most rabid advocate of simplified spelling in the land. That happens the first time he has to give up his evening newspaper and sit down with his 10-year-old son who has been urged to get help somewhere, even from his father, in the matter of spelling those words that look alike and are pronounced otherwise, or vice versa.

The Shot Heard 'Round The World

As Our Readers See It

SO DID WE

As a regular reader of your newspaper I was deeply shocked at the narrow point of view expressed in a reply to a letter published on the "Gloucesters" action in Korea.

You, yourself cannot possibly believe your answer as American actions in Korea are widely reported and I think that your readers are just as interested in Commonwealth troops.

Surely the giving of their lives by hundreds of gallant men deserves as much space as, for instance, the impending third divorce of some film star and all its sordid details.

The Gloucester Regiment was fighting under the United Nations flag and not purely for any British Imperial gain and I feel one felt great pride in their action.

STARTS WITH DOUBT

It was very nice of Mr. L. J. Eekman to assure me that I was correct and am being sustained by Almighty God. I am not impressed with his authority for his statement, however. St. Paul, by his own confession, was a Jewish propagandist, a Pharisee and a murderer, see Acts 26:10, "and many of the saints did I shut up in prison, having received authority from the chief priests; and when they were put to death, I gave my voice against them."

I am inclined rather to the testimony of Professor "Freddy" Ayers of the Universities of London and Texas, "The statement 'There is a God' is neither true nor false for it is unverifiable."

Honest doubt is the starting point of all progress and enlightenment. If our scientists and philosophers had taken the same attitude as that of Mr. Eekman and others who presume to know all the answers, we would probably still believe that the earth was flat and that the stork produced babies, and the three young ladies from Admirals Road would never be able to find out whether it was scientifically possible to produce a "catabbitt" or not.

MUSICAL FESTIVAL

Victoria recently held a very delightful Musical Competition Festival and it was most encouraging to discover the fine array of musical talent, especially among the young people. The piano solo classes as well as school choirs all showed careful preparation on the part of teachers. We are indebted to the adult choirs who gave us such fine renditions of their respective test pieces, all this helping to round out a varied program.

Who ever will forget the thrill in the City of Victoria Medallion Contest held on the Friday evening and the playing by the two talented young pianists who participated for the top honor. Then we also had the Rose Bowl class which created much interest. Much praise has been accorded to the winners in the respective classes but it is well to remember that each competitor, winner or loser, helps to make a festival.

It must have been a great source of satisfaction to the Scotsmen in Greater Victoria that the Festival committee included for the first time contests for Bagpipe playing and as an incentive the Victoria Burns Club presented to the winner a handsome volume of "Pibroch's for the Pipes," the divinest of music.

Under Our Roof

By JOHN RHODES STURDY

THE OTHER day, on the island, we had a chimney fire, and inside of seconds the Volunteer Fire Brigade had telephoned to offer assistance, such as hoisting down the roof if we felt it was necessary, and I said to my wife (after she had put out the fire): "You know, I like the way that Fire Brigade handles things. Those boys are really courteous. Not like some of the firemen I knew back East. Did I ever tell you about the time that Hamish and I..."

Sturdy started sending you those postcards I've been getting cold shivers imagining that Hamish is going to appear in the flesh one of these days and wreck our idyllic island existence.

Well, to tell the truth, I've been a little worried on that score myself. Only that morning I had received another postcard from Hamish, who was the assistant janitor in the apartment house that I mockingly called "home" at one time Back East. All the card said was: "John, John, the grey goose is gone," which doesn't appear to make sense when you look at it the first time. But if you keep looking at it (provided, of course, that your name is John and not Joe or Osbert) the words begin to eat at your mind and take on a terrifying sound, like a note of doom.

But I kept telling myself that Hamish was Back East and I was basking in the Evergreen Playground, and never the twain should meet. However, I couldn't help thinking about that fire.

It started in the apartment of Mr. Toolittle, which was in the extreme rear of the building on the fourth floor. Mr. Toolittle was a mild little man who kept pretty much to himself and his hobby, which happened to be building boats. Mr. Toolittle was a little different from other boat builders, however. He built his in the living room of his apartment. Naturally, when he finished one he couldn't get it outdoors, so he had to pull it to pieces and start construction on another one. He was happy man.

It was young Timothy Tubbs who noticed the smoke pouring out one of Mr. Toolittle's windows and immediately raised the alarm. Everybody came running, including Hamish and Col. S. Skeffington-Smuts (Ret.) and Mr. and Mrs. Tubbs, and someone called the fire department.

That was a big mistake. In no time at all the street was filled with fire engines, and a big man in a fire chief's hat jumped out of a red car, looked at the building and exclaimed ecstatically: "Boy, oh, boy, what a chance to try out our new hose truck! Where's the fire?"

"In the rear," said Hamish.

"All right, boys," the chief yelled to his firemen. "Everybody around to the front!"

"Wouldn't it be simpler," I suggested, "to try the lane? After all, a man may be burning to death."

The chief gave me a scathing look. "We'll get to him," he said. "What do you think we've got axes for?"

They had axes, all right. Great, shiny ones, with keen razor-like edges, and I'll never forget the expressions of pure joy on the faces of the firemen as they advanced on the building.

"Let Harry have the first go," the Chief ordered. "It's his turn."

BREAKING IN

"Thanks, Chief," said a fireman with a boyish grin and proceeded to smash down the front door with great sweeps of his axe.

While the firemen cut through the building, ripping walls apart and playing hoses on every piece of furniture that met their eye, Hamish and I dashed around to the rear to find Mr. Toolittle hanging out his living room window.

"Courage!" Hamish shouted. "The firemen are coming. Are the flames very high?"

"What flames?" Mr. Toolittle asked mildly. "There's just a little smoke from the buns I burnt in the oven." He suddenly ducked out of sight and when his head reappeared he looked frightened.

"Somebody's coming through the wall," he said.

In the end it was Mr. Toolittle who actually benefited from the ruin and destruction. The firemen cut such a big hole in his living room wall that for the first time he was able to get a boat of his outdoors.

Atom Bomb May Go On View

By STEWART ALSOP, from Washington

THE U.S. Civil Defence Agency has now seriously proposed to the Atomic Energy Commission that an atomic bomb be exploded publicly—that is, after arrangements have been made to permit the maximum number of people to witness the explosion in safety. The Atomic Energy Commission is examining this proposal, before making its recommendation to President Truman, with whom the final decision will rest.

The idea sounds fantastic. But it is simply being considered seriously for very serious reasons. One reason is that some way must be found to get the U.S. civil defence program off dead centre. The action of Congress, in reducing appropriations to the point where the whole program is a rather grim joke, accurately reflects the total public apathy toward civil defence.

Part of the apathy derives from the atmosphere of dark mystery in which the atomic bomb has been wrapped. Because very few people understand what the atom bomb does, and above all what it cannot do, there has been a general tendency to succumb to a sort of shoulder-shrugging fatalism.

The primary purpose of a public explosion of the bomb would be to dispel this attitude by dispelling the atmosphere of mystery. If the Atomic Energy Commission and the President approve the Civil Defence Agency's proposal (which was first put forward by the physicist Dr. Ralph Lapp in "The Reporter" magazine) the following plan, or something like it, will be put into effect.

NOT UNLIMITED

A site will be selected, not in the Arizona desert, but sufficiently close to centres of population to drive home the point that the damage inflicted by the bomb is not unlimited. Buildings of various sorts, ranging from reinforced concrete to frame houses, will be erected at varying distances from ground zero, the point above which the bomb is exploded. Anyone wishing to do so could then apply to witness the explosion, with first priority given to local civil defence officials.

A bomb of medium power—perhaps the equivalent of 30,000 tons of high explosive—would probably be used, since the explosion of a more powerful bomb might conceivably be of interest to Soviet agents. The general public would be allowed to witness the explosion from a distance of seven miles or more, since this distance provides absolute safety without protection. To demonstrate that there is such a thing as protection from the bomb, volunteer observers could witness the explosion as close as a mile from ground zero, at which point one foot of concrete would offer ample protection.

The actual explosion would be televised at close range, and reported in all other ways. To scotch the damaging and wildly exaggerated fears of lingering radiation, there might well be public tours of the bombed site immediately after the explosion. The site could then become a permanent testing ground and experimental area for civil defence.

A public atomic explosion could contribute to a serious civil defence by graphically demonstrating the limitations as well as the capabilities of the atomic bomb, and above all by substituting for the terrible unknown the always less terrible known.

A really effective civil defence could reduce casualties, even from the immensely powerful modern bombs, by as much as 80 per cent. An effective civil defence could, indeed, make the precise difference between victory and defeat, if war comes. This has been said so often that it is beginning to lose all meaning. But it is nevertheless true. And if a public explosion of an atomic bomb helped to show that it is true, it would serve an immensely useful purpose.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"EVERYBODY," said the Elevator Man, "at some time or another has said, 'If only I knew what was going to happen!'"

The urge to peer into the future is general among mankind. It's the one thing we can't be sure about, and it's the one thing we are always trying to pierce. A good many thousands are spent each year on soothsayers, seers, palm gazers, teacup peepers, playing card readers and other members of the profession. They tell you what's going to happen in the future all right, and a certain percentage of it comes true. The only trouble is, you could hit about as good an average if YOU told THEIR fortune, and probably even better if you told your own. Once people get wise to that, there'll be no future in the fortune-telling business. Going down!

"As a matter of fact," said the Elevator Man, "it's just as well a lot of us don't know what's coming up. Most of us, when we talk of knowing the future, think of it only in terms of good news. We forget that we'd be walking around with a heavy load of bad news, too, if we knew what was ahead of us. That fella in London could give you the facts on that. He was told some months ago that he would be killed in an automobile accident on May 20, 1951. He didn't give the prediction full belief, but he wasn't taking any chances either. He bought a special insurance policy and did a lot of worrying. Came the big day, and he took extra precautions. I guess he died a thousand deaths before midnight struck, and freed him from his mental anguish. But it just goes to show you what life might be like if we knew—or thought we knew—the future. Lower main!"

"It seems to me," said the Elevator Man, "that a good deal of the future has already happened. I mean by that, that if we studied the past as much as we should we'd have a better idea of what to expect. It's all there for us to read if we have the eyes for it. History repeats itself often than we think—though a lot of us don't think very often."

Former Premier Inspects New Times Plant

Hon. T. D. Pattullo, former premier of B.C., paid visit to Daily Times Monday to see modern Victoria Press Ltd. plant. Operator of a newspaper in the east in early days, Mr. Pattullo showed keen interest in mechanical departments. He is shown with Times publisher, Stuart Keate, watching printer Ian Donaldson "making up" home edition of newspaper.

HOME GARDEN

by Hilda Beasall

Whether you own a small greenhouse or not, it is good experience to raise a few perennials from seed.

Providing you purchase a good strain of seed, and have a fair-size nursery where the plants grow for the first year's flowering, much may grow for you. In most instances, there will be some variation in the plants produced, and that is where good gardening practice is used. Select only those plants which are nearest perfection as regards flowers and general habit. Observation will aid you in this, as will the studying of gardening magazines and catalogues.

Discard the poorer specimens, by consigning them to the compost heap. Don't inflict them on your friends and neighbors. If the plants are not good enough for you, they will not improve any other garden.

CAN PLANT NOW

Perennials which may be sown now, either in a well prepared seed bed outdoors, or in seed boxes in a greenhouse or porch, are delphinium, hardy primula, erigeron, geum, gaillardia, Iceland poppy, boltonia, doricum, dianthus, and others.

Prick out when large enough to handle, and give a little extra attention during the summer, as regards keeping the soil loose, watering, and possibly a mulch of fine compost to prevent the soil packing around the little plants.

In early fall, plant into nursery rows where they will have sufficient space to flower next year for selection.

These perennials will give many years of flowering pleasure, and can be the source of an extensive stock of handsome plants for your borders.

Even if only one plant proves itself worthy of propagating, divisions are easily made, either in early spring or early fall according to their flowering date.

Government To Hamper Activities Of Bookies

Ottawa Expected To Take Steps To Control Their Communications, Says Ontario A-G.

TORONTO (CP)—Attorney-General Dana Porter of Ontario said Monday the federal government is expected to take steps to control communications used by bookmakers.

He told the legislature's committee on crime the federal action will probably come "very soon" through amendment of the Criminal Code. He added that such amendment will have the "full approval" of Ontario.

The committee also was told today that Sam Rober, described as publisher of a Toronto "scratch sheet," will appear voluntarily as a witness. It was disclosed at the hearing that Howard Kerr, one-time head of racing wire service to Windsor bookies, for a time paid for more than 50 telephones and had a monthly phone bill of $1,600.

The committee agreed to let Canadian National Telegraphs submit a list of questions to Inspector William Tomlinson of the Ontario provincial police but decided against giving "a barrage of solicitors" a chance to cross-examine every witness.

In reply to the questions, Inspector Tomlinson said he had received "full co-operation" from the telegraph company and that in Hamilton it had cut off a direct service between a scratch sheet office and a race track immediately it was asked to do so.

Inspector Tomlinson said barring racing wire services from tracks would make it difficult for bookies to get information. "What about telegraph services and newspapers?" asked E. B. Jolliffe, a committee member. "They're all right as long as they are used for news and not for bookmakers. Press reports are too far behind the race to be any good to bookmakers."

The hearing is continuing.

MODERNIZED MOONSHINERS PILFER POWER

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Electric power coupled with some native East Tennessee ingenuity has resulted in a new device in this region of moonshine whisky: an electric still.

Police today confiscated an elaborate electrically heated "pot" atop remote Daisy Mountain.

Six heating units, which eliminated the give-away smoke, were built inside the 50-gallon pot, the police said.

Harold Crowe, former State Forestry Service worker, was charged with possessing untaxed whisky. Police quoted Crowe as saying he got the idea from hearing advertisements booming the area's "cheap electricity."

Pattullo Got His 'Scoop'

Minor break-down of The Times press Monday during a visit by former premier T. Duff Pattullo set the 78-year-old Victorian to reminiscing about a similar experience in his own publishing days.

"It was back in '96, and I was publishing the Galt Reporter," the former B.C. leader recalled. "A story came in that James J. Corbett had handed John L. Sullivan the first defeat of his career. I was anxious to scoop the opposition and decided to put a major line on the story."

"But the press had a mechanical failure. I went to the press foreman and said: 'I'll give you $10 if you get it fixed in 15 minutes.'"

"He fixed it—and we had a nice scoop. It was quite a trick for those days."

Amendment To Postal Act Planned; Commonwealth Trade Boost Asked

OTTAWA (CP)—A 1950 controversy over refusal of the use of the mails to certain Canadians has brought results in Parliament.

Postmaster-General Rinfret introduced in the Commons Monday a bill to overhaul for the first time in decades the Post Office Act, the law governing the handling of Canadian mails.

It contains a new section providing for establishment of boards of review to hear protests from Canadians the post office has refused use of the mails.

The background is a 1950 controversy that broke when the post office cracked down on certain men, notably in Toronto, who, officials said, were thought to be using postal facilities to obtain money under false pretences by trying to sell bad stocks.

There were protests at the time that the men had no adequate recourse for a complaint. Now has undertaken to give them a three-man board to be appointed by the Postmaster-General to recommend to him whether any such crackdowns should stick.

Refusal of the mails means that the post office neither collects mail from nor delivers it to such people.

Another major development in the bill is one which will boost postal rates for newspapers and periodicals sharply to raise revenues for the post office in those fields by $2,000,000 or more than 50 per cent.

Officials estimate the new rates will boost postal costs for most newspapers between 50 and 100 per cent.

Trade Too Concentrated

Led by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, Opposition members hammered at the Government to do something to boost trade within the Commonwealth. Members said Canada is putting too many eggs in one basket in concentrating more and more trade with the U.S.

Mr. Drew urged Canada to initiate a Commonwealth conference on trade and mainly to do something about dollar-sterling convertibility. He was backed by other members.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, called convertibility a highly important matter and Solon Low, Social Credit leader, backed the conference idea, saying Commonwealth trade could do much to balance world trade as a whole. Trade Minister Howe said that Canada and Britain are engaging in important trade discussions here right now and that conferences with France, the West Indies and New Zealand will follow.

Canadian-British trade was in good balance as was Canada's trade with the rest of the world. Britain was selling more to Canada than ever before.

As for charges that Canada was abandoning Commonwealth preferences, they were not true. But it was true, Mr. Howe said, that the preferences mean little to Canada.

Other Commonwealth countries could trade here and get advantage of the preferences they

Legion Votes Condemnation Of H.I.S. Plan

PENTICTON, B.C. (BUP)—A storm of protest was raised here Monday over the British Columbia hospital insurance service by 229 delegates to the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion.

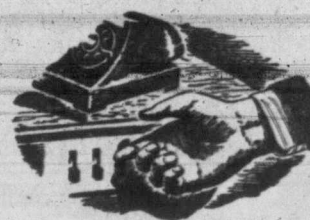

One delegate said co-insurance clause was brought about "by outside pressure and private M.L.A.'s lacked adequate information of the over-all plan."

Delegates passed a resolution condemning the government for failure to remove what they termed "gross discrimination involved in this legislation."

Continued pressure was urged for exemption of premium payments by wives of married war veterans' allowance recipients and other low income groups, including recipients of widows' allowances and dependent par- ents pensions. Wording of the original resolution was changed from "express regret at" to "condemn" in referring to the Coalition Government's legislation.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

British Indies Would Increase Canada Trade

The British West Indies are anxious to increase their trade with Canada, Simon Bloomberg, collector general and chairman of Imports Control, Jamaica, said here today.

Mr. Bloomberg, who plans to go to Ottawa for the B.W.I. trade liberalization conference to open Friday, is in Victoria to visit his daughter Mariam. He also has another daughter, Nora, in Vancouver.

The friendly Englishman attached to the British colonial service hoped that the B.W.I. would be able to increase its sugar exports to Canada as the result of the forthcoming conference. Sugar is Jamaica's basic export, he explained.

Sugar supplies are plentiful, he said. He feared that the increasing production of sugar in Cuba and other countries might eventually lead to a drop in prices which would have an adverse effect on the economy of the B.W.I.

With regard to rum, Mr. Bloomberg said very little Jamaica rum is being shipped to Canada this year in comparison with other years.

"Most of the rum you get here is made in Canada," he said. "You import our sugar to make it yourself."

Mr. Bloomberg said the cost of lying, as elsewhere, is high in Jamaica.

He declared Britain is anxious to unite the B.W.I. into a federa-

T.C.A. Is Opposing Port Parking Plan

Transport Department Pay Scheme Would Establish Paid Operation

Trans-Canada Air Lines is opposed to paid parking at Patricia Bay Airport and wants parking facilities as close to the check-in point as possible, Wallace G. Courtney, T.C.A. district traffic and sales manager, said today.

"We have made our policy known to the Department of Transport," Mr. Courtney said. "We are vitally concerned with this problem and feel our stand will be given serious consideration."

The D.O.T. policy is to establish a parking lot under private operation for the parking of all cars visiting the airport. Limited loading and unloading times will be allowed for passengers at air lines' offices, since proposed parking area is far removed from the loading zone.

Deadline for tenders was May 15.

"I would assume that tenders have now been opened in Ottawa and that the successful operator will be notified in due course," Keith J. Robinson, airport manager, said today.

FOLLOWED ORDERS

He said the parking lot plans were made in Ottawa, and that he only followed orders on the proposal. No parking charge is being paid yet, he said.

Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce, and Victoria Chamber of Commerce, are both against the parking plan, and have sought the aid of Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew to have the plan shelved.

Funeral Rites Wed. For A. C. Burdick

Private funeral service will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 for Arthur Charles Burdick, president of Pacific Salvage Company, and one of the most colorful marine figures on the Pacific Coast.

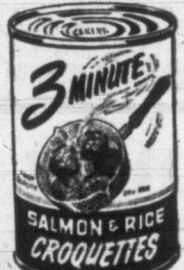

Mr. Burdick died Sunday in Royal Jubilee Hospital after a brief illness. He was 78.

The service will be held at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Company. Cremation will be at Royal Oak. Mr. Burdick entered the salvage business 30 years ago. Before that he was an Alberta farm hand, a department store clerk, a men's clothing and a real estate and insurance agent.

His Salvage King sailed as far south as Mexico and as far north as Alaska, as well as out to sea, to take part in many salvage exploits which made news around the world.

Mr. Burdick was a widower. He is survived by one son, Beau, in Vancouver, and two grandsons, Michael and Eric; two brothers, Newton and G. E., in Vancouver, and a niece, Miss Helen Nichol, Victoria.

Deaf Chinese Finally Gets His Citizenship

Maw Sum Lok, of Victoria, a deaf Chinese with no knowledge of English, seeking his Canadian citizenship certificate, posed a knotty problem for Judge H. H. Shandley in County Court Monday as to how he could take the oath of allegiance to King and country.

Judge Shandley finally instructed Chinese interpreter Ben Mar to write the oath of allegiance in Chinese for the applicant to read aloud. The interpreter then interpreted the oral oath from Chinese into English. The whole procedure consumed more than half an hour. Fifteen other applicants received citizenship papers. Elementary Schools' High Jump And Broad Jump Champions

Already well up in the points competition for the elementary schools track and field championships are the four boys and four girls above, who won the broad jump and high jump events run off early this week. In the picture

Winners in the boys field events for the elementary schools championships were, left to right, Roy Smith, Lampson Street School; Larry Clarkson, Willows; Gordon Wilkie, Willows, and Howard Giles, Mount Tolmie. Track events will be held tomorrow afternoon at Macdonald Park, starting at 1, with over 1,000 elementary school pupils competing for the silverware.

NOVELTY EVENT at yesterday's track meet at Sir James Douglas school was the traditional broom race. Teams of five boys riding a broomstick are required to pile through tire, crawl under the bench in the background, make swing around chair and back to the finish line.

TWO MEETS WEDNESDAY

Schools Shoot At Prep Marks

The green sward of Porter Park saw the last of individual elementary schools track meets yesterday as Sir James Douglas students turned out en masse to watch their favorites perform. The Fairfield school meet had been postponed from last Wednesday because of a damp field.

Tomorrow afternoon picked squads of competitors from every grade school in the Greater Victoria area will gather at Macdonald Park for the big test of the year—the track championships.

Field events have already been run off, clearing the way for the sprints and novelty races which are expected to jam the stands at the big field in James Bay.

JUMP WINNERS

Four girls and four boys from widely scattered schools won the laurels in high jumping and broad jumping. Paddy Moulds, of Monterey, is girls' under-13 broad jump champ; and Sheila Forbes, of the same school, open broad jump titlist.

Best feminine high jumpers are Marie Tanner, of Lampson Street, who won the open event; and Janet Vanderhaeghe, Margaret Jenkins, who won the under-13.

Boys' open broad jumping went to Roy Smith, of Lampson Street, with Larry Clarkson, of Willows School, winning in the under-13.

High jumpers are Howard Giles (Mount Tolmie), open champ, and Gordon Wilkie, of Willows, under-13.

CELEBRATIONS EVENTS

The elementary meet will share tomorrow afternoon's spotlight with the big inter-high meet at Victoria High School, both billed as part of the Greater Victoria Celebrations—Association's May 24 observances.

Pre-meet favorites in the elementary show will be Monterey School, given a small point margin by their two victories in the field events.

VIC. HIGH STRONG

In the inter-high, Victoria High is favored to retain the championship after pushing up a 20-point margin on yesterday's field events.

Two Fernwood Road athletes smashed inter-high records. Chris Boyd set a new girls' broad jump mark with a leap of 15 ft. 7 1/4 in. Barry Caviness added 11 inches to the shot put distance set by Charlie Brumwell in 1949, hurling the leaden ball 38 ft. 4 1/2 in.

Bob Skillings, of Mount Douglas, set a new junior 400 mark of 56.9 in preliminary heats.

Both high jump and broad jumps went to Vic. High, with Bob Zarzy tying Laurie Woollett in the first, at 5 ft. 3/4 in., and Ted Whan's leap of 18 ft. 11 1/4 in. tops in the broad jump.

Oak Bay's Barbara Forbes was first in the junior girls high jump and helped her school to second place on the basis of field event points.

Inter-high field events will be completed today. Both the elementary track championships, at Macdonald Park, and the inter-high championships, at Victoria High School, will start tomorrow at 1.

Record Field In U.S. Open

NEW YORK (AP)—The largest field ever to try for the United States Open golf championship, 1,480—has entered the 1951 tournament, the U.S. Golf Association announced Monday. The event will be held June 14-16 at Oakland Hills, Birmingham, Miss.

Entrants include defending champion Ben Hogan, nine past open champions, British Open champion Bobby Locke, amateur champion Sam Urzetta, and P.G.A. Champion Chandler Harper.

The previous entry was 1,411 for the tournament at Los Angeles in 1948.

Views Of Sport

by RED SMITH

NEW YORK.—Seven days a week, 52 weeks a year, this space is devoted to performers who do things with their muscles. Today it belongs to people who can't. If mention of cerebral palsy offends or worries you, drop it and go read up on the Giants or MacArthur.

Speaking the Giants, incidentally—and how incidental can you get?—fans will be gratified to know that one of the ills which have beset the club this year has, at long last, been diagnosed. Frank Graham says their first baseman, Monte Irvin, has a horror of thrown balls. This is an even graver affliction than the one which assailed Dick Siebert one afternoon when he was playing first base for the Athletics against the Red Sox. John Gilooly, the Boston journalist, described the effect thus: "Siebert approached a ground ball as if it were a hooded cobra."

When we write about physical handicaps on the sports page, it is almost invariably in connection with somebody's triumph over great odds. It is almost always a story of a Ben Hogan, coming back to win the National Open Golf Championship after being smashed to bits in an automobile accident; of a Lou Brissie, scrambling up to the major leagues on a leg torn to shreds by artillery fire; of a Glenn Cunningham, whose determination to repair the dreadful damage done by burns which he suffered in boyhood made him the greatest mile runner of his time.

They Live With Faith And Courage

The story of cerebral palsy is a story of kids who cannot hope to accomplish anything of note on the athletic fields. But they can, with faith and courage and help, grow up to lead healthy, normal, happy lives.

There is under way at present a national campaign to raise $5,000,000 for the treatment of cerebral palsy. It hasn't much to do with sports, which are the normal concern of this column, except that there is a national sports committee supporting the drive with Grantland Rice and Bob Hall, Yale's Director of Athletics, as co-chairmen.

As national drives go, the financial goal is small change. It wouldn't amount to anything for one of the big organizations that are experienced in fund-raising campaigns. But the United Cerebral Palsy Association, Inc., is a relatively new group composed chiefly of amateurs in this sort of work. Until recently, when it was organized on a national scale, it didn't have a single salaried employee.

Its members were the parents of children with cerebral palsy, parents who had discovered how meager were the facilities for the treatment of their children and were groping for something better. They were, and are, people like Mrs. James Killilea Jr., who has learned a great deal in the nine years since her daughter, Karen, was born with cerebral palsy.

They Live With Hope For The Future

Mrs. Killilea has learned what a powerful influence cerebral palsy can exert toward drawing together all the children in a family, what a proud sense of personal value and dignity the handicapped child can achieve, and what a privilege it is to parents "to think," she says, "that God will trust you to take care of the child."

But it is difficult to sell these things to parents unless you can also give them hope. And although cerebral palsy is as old as the human race, very little has been learned about it. So little that facilities are now available for proper treatment of only four of every hundred children. And there are today 546,000 children and adults in the United States who were born with cerebral palsy.

That's what this campaign is all about, of course—to give hope for the other 96 of each 100.

It Can Happen To Anybody

Cerebral palsy results from injury to the motor section of the brain, frequently incurred at birth. It is not hereditary, it is an accident that can occur in any family. It can happen to the sweetest, the most intelligent of kids. They are bright and biddable, but they have difficulty performing the simple acts that the rest of us take for granted.

They can learn to do these things, but they need help. They won't ever play in the outfield for the Yankees, but they can be helped and they can whip their handicap. For us ordinary slobs, there is a very simple way of helping.

Just send a dollar to United Cerebral Palsy, New York 1, N.Y. It is as easy as that.

Rocks' Final Rally Falls One Goal Shy

"With a guy who can shoot 10 times in 10 seconds, we should have licked them."

That's the way barrister-at-law Edwin Popham saw it as he sat despondent in the Shamrock's dressing room after last night's game, and perhaps that's the way it should have been.

Instead, the Vancouver Combines went home jubilant with a 12 to 11 victory after their first 1951 Intercity Dacrosse League appearance on a Victoria floor.

TAKE BIG LEAD

Veteran Jim Anderson, who scored two first-quarter goals, led a blistering, twisting, hard-running Combine attack that had the Victorians on the defensive almost all the initial period. Only a brilliant single-handed effort by Tom Druce saved the Rocks from a 4-to-0 blanking as Ernie Smith and Ken Webb supported Anderson's brace of markers with another pair.

In the second stanza the Vancouver squad faltered as Archie Browning fired the Shamrocks with a three-goal job and the locals began to come back. Tommy Druce got his second picture goal of the night, and Art Green made it five for the quarter on passes from McCaghey and Coates.

The best Combine effort could produce only three goals and they carried a slim 7-to-6 margin over the half-time point.

'ROCKS' TIE IT UP

With the crowd roaring for the tying goal, Art Green obliged at the five-minute mark in the third, scoring on a drive from close in after taking passes from Arnie Ferguson and Norm Coates, but the goal was destined to be the only one of the quarter.

The pace moved from torrid to terrific in the final canto as Harry Buchanan and Rene Leatherbarrow dropped the Irish behind the eight ball again with a pair of tallies in two minutes. The deficit seemed to annoy big Norm Baker, who had been robbed regularly by Jack Green, and the blonde blaster moved in for two goals to tie it up again.

FINAL DRIVE

But the Combines were far from finished. Little Lyle Scott got away from his check just long enough to beat Bill Andrews and score his first goal of the season, and Rene Leatherbarrow added two more, the second with only three minutes left in the game.

The 12-to-9 margin must have taken the Shamrocks back to the final count in their first game with the Vancouver squad, and the Victorians moved in with all the fire power they could muster.

It was little Archie Browning who carried the load, and if he didn't fire "10 shots in 10 seconds" he came very near it as he clawed his way through to toss a torrent of rubber at Green.

Two shots clicked, but they weren't enough, and when Bill Wilkes blew the final whistle a pent-up crowd that neared the 4,000 mark exhaled in one long, slow, disappointed breath.

Aces Tie For Lead By Edging Gasmen

Butler's Aces, paced by two consecutive home runs by Whitey Turner, pounced on an over-confident Pitzer and Nex team in the early innings last night and hung on long enough to eke out a 10 to 9 victory.

By winning, Aces stretched their unbeaten streak to four games to move into a tie with the Gasmen for first place in the Senior A Men's League race.

BIG INNING

Aces opened with a rush in the first inning and took a liking to the pitching slants of Ken Gunter. After Hal Yardley grounded out, Turner walked, Frank Kilshaw doubled and John Furmston, swinging with one hand, dropped a double in behind second base, driving in two runs.

Ronnie Benn sent a hot grounder to short and Furmston confused the infielder, allowing Benn to reach first safely.

Furmston scored on a passed ball, and on an attempted play at home, Gunter nonchalantly let the ball get away from him and Benn crossed home plate without a play being made on him.

Charlie MacKay, who opened on the mound for the Aces, seemed to be holding back in the first two or three innings and was having trouble finding the plate. His pitches had no zip and when he did get the ball over he was always in hot water.

Pitzer and Nex got two runs back in their half of the first, but a single by Yardley and Whitey Turner's first home run over Ray Byers' head in right field put Aces ahead again.

6 to 2.

Bernie Clarkson tripled to the trees in left field with two runs.

ners aboard in the third, and completed the run around himself on Ab Wiebe's long fly out to centre to put Pitzer and Nex back in contention.

In the top of the sixth Turner latched onto Gunter's first pitch and put it in the trees in left field to put his team ahead two runs at 7 to 5.

GARNET HOMERS

Flori Goegan picked up his first of two doubles in the bottom of the sixth and Toad Garner lined out a long home run to right centre to move the losers into a tie at 7 to 7.

Furmston was the second batter in the seventh and he poked out the longest triple seen in the park in many a year, scoring on the same play on an overthrow at home.

Singles by Ronnie Benn and Archie Sluggett brought in Norm Martin to relieve Gunter, and Willie Benn and Will Turner greeted him with two more singles to drive in two runs and Aces went ahead to stay at 10 to 7.

Tonight at 6:30 B.C. Forest Products and Bluebird Cabs meet on the upper diamond at Central Park.

Short score follows:

R. H. E.
Butler Bros.' Aces.....	10 14 4
Pitzer and Nex.....	9 12 2
Batteries: MacKay, Furmston (6) and J. Turner; Gunter, Martin (7) and Wiebe.

BUCCOLA STILL LEADS

Don Pries Second In W.I.L. Batting Race

TACOMA (AP)—Vic Buccola's batting average sagged by 23 points during the past week, but his current .402 mark was still comfortably ahead of his nearest rivals in the Western International League willow race, it was revealed in figures released today from the office of Robert B. Abel, W.I.L. president.

Runner-up by virtue of a 15-for-26 week, including one five-for-five performance, was Victoria's Don Pries at .383. His average for the seven games was a cool .577, and he hiked his season's mark 70 points from .313.

In third place at .379 was Yakima's Jerry Zuvela, who also registered a sharp gain during the week, climbing from .348 to clubbing 13 hits in 29 trips.

Vancouver's Dick Sinovic batted in four more runs to increase his league-leading total to 29, while a pair of Victoria sluggers, Lillo Marucci and Bill White, each hit two homers to climb into a tie with Buccola for the lead in circuit blows at five apiece. Buccola clouted one boundary belt during the week.

Graziano Ends Johnny Greco's Comeback Hope

MONTREAL (CP)—Former world middleweight champion Rocky Graziano unleashed a pile-driving right hand here last night that knocked out Montreal's Johnny Greco in the third round of their scheduled 10-rounder.

A crowd of 6,265 contributed a gross gate of $23,421 for the short-lived bout that saw the 25-year-old Graziano, a New York eastside product, tag the Canadian welterweight king squarely on the chin at 1:56 of the third with the only damaging blow.

At 161 1/2 pounds, Graziano held a seven and a half pound margin over the 27-year-old Montrealer. The steam appeared to have left Greco's punch. His reflexes were slow. However, the Montrealer scored enough blows in the second to win the round on points. Graziano took the opening warm-up heat.

Golf Finalist

Defending champion Shirley Fry won her way into the finals of the Gorge Vale women's handicap championship yesterday when she carded a 3 and 2 victory over Mrs. H. McIntyre, tournament medalist.

Miss Fry will meet Dorothy Herberston, who downed Mrs. M. Hulke, 4 and 2, in the semis. First flight finalists are Lena Harris and Norah O'Connell, while Bertha Haig and Mrs. Jack Kersey will compete for honors in the second flight.

ROBINSON WILL DEFEND TITLE FOR SAY—$75,000

PARIS (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson is willing to defend his middleweight boxing championship over here—that is, for a price.

The price, says manager George Gainford, is $90,000. Or at least $75,000.

The subject of a 160-pound title bout in London or Paris was raised after the middleweight king stopped Kid Marcel, the French champion, in the fifth round of a 10-round bout here last night.

The championship wasn't at stake since both weighed in at a little more than 160. London promoter Jack Solomons was on hand to see the bout. Afterwards he talked with Gainford about a match between Robinson and Randolph Turpin, the British and Empire middleweight titlist.

The talks didn't get past the preliminary stage.

VACATION GUIDE

Campbell River—The World-Famous Fishing Spot

TALL TIMBER—AND CAMPBELL RIVER

The above photograph shows but one of the many memorable views afforded vacationers . . . in the ever-popular Campbell River area. Tall, strapping timber combines with an abundance of rumbling waters, to produce a rugged example of Mother Nature at her outdoor best!

Salt water, river and lake fishing all in one area at Campbell River . . . make this beautiful spot a fishermen's paradise!

Campbell River has much to offer the tourist, for it is wonderfully situated! Points of interest within easy driving distance include the famous Seymour Narrows through which the Pacific's tides flood and ebb with a tremendous roar and a subsiding calm. In the narrows is treacherous Ripple Rock . . . graveyard of ships. Another interesting spectacle is offered by Elk Falls, Mother Nature's magnificent masterpiece. Here the river spills over a high rugged rock bluff, and falls churning into the deep chasms below.

A short distance up the river at Moose Falls is the mighty John Hart project which dams the river and harnesses water for the development of hydro power. Twenty minutes by car from Campbell River is the British Columbia Forestry Department's Nursery. Here millions of trees are grown and nursed for the department's reforestation program. Campbell River is 169 miles from Victoria by bus or car. Buses leave daily for Campbell River.

Fishing is the most popular attraction at Campbell River with good catches made daily. For the benefit of anglers, here are the fishing tables:

SALMON Tyee . . . latter part of July, August and September.
Cohoe . . . August, September, early October (good runs during June and July).
Springs . . . April to September (fair in February and March).
Blueback . . . May, June and July.

TROUT Cutthroat . . . March to September.
Steelhead . . . December, January, February and March.

Hunting is another popular sport at Campbell River. Blue Grouse, Duck and Brant, Blacktail Deer, Cougar and Black Bear being the hunted.

CANADIAN NAVY 'BUSY'

Big 'Un, Little 'Un Have Smoky Battle Off N.S.

HALIFAX (CP)—Naval men here are still chuckling about the smoky battle of the "Big 'Un" and the "Little 'Un."

The Big 'Un is the aircraft carrier Magnificent. The Little 'Un is the destroyer Micmac.

While anchored in nearby St. Margaret's bay during exercises last week a boat crew from Magnificent succeeded in making off with Micmac's motor launch and painting out some of the destroyer's numbers.

Next night Micmac had her turn. Two boats set across to the carrier.

One craft a decoy, purposely left itself be detected. It's crew, prepared with oilskins, was thoroughly hoed by the carrier's fire equipment.

While this was going on the other craft slipped toward the Magnificent's anchor cable and attached a large smoke flare with chain and padlock.

The carrier was filled with smoke for hours after.

Thief Makes Second Haul At High School

For the second time in three weeks a thief was active at the S. J. Willis Junior High School Monday afternoon. From the girls' locker room a tin cash box containing $10, two stop watches and a wallet were stolen. On the first occasion $35 was stolen from a vault in the principal's office, police said.

The biggest little book in Canada

ONLY YOU know the personal story your bank book tells. Did you know there are 8,000,000 such bank books in Canada? Each contains information that is strictly private, each represents "money in the bank".

Your money is part of the grand total of these little books — a great pool of deposits mobilized and safeguarded in Canada's 3,700 branch banks.

Your money in the bank and that of millions like you, enables the banks to provide the credit that helps keep Canadians producing, manufacturing, marketing.

That is how you help the chartered banks serve Canadians.

Esquimalt Will Launch Move To Revive Inter-Municipal Group

Esquimalt Council will approach Victoria and the municipalities of Oak Bay and Saanich to see if there is sufficient interest to revive the long-defunct inter-municipal committee, which was comprised of representatives of each of the four areas and dealt with common problems.

This was decided by the Esquimalt body at a meeting Monday night. The council went further by suggesting garbage disposal should be the first matter discussed by such an organization.

Councillor A. C. Wurtele, who sponsored the suggestion, said it was time some concerted action was taken with regard to disposal of garbage. He declared Esquimalt was in the unfortunate position of having garbage from the city, Saanich and Oak Bay washed upon its beaches.

"The question of garbage disposal has been kicked about for the last five years," the councillor protested.

He then took heated exception to statement made by City Engineer Cyril Jones, who claimed garbage recently washed on Esquimalt beaches was from the navy or from some other Esquimalt agency.

PROTESTS "RED HERRING"

"That's just a matter of drawing a red herring over an unpleasant subject," the councillor protested. "Everybody knows that little tug which carries the city garbage doesn't go three miles out to sea where it is supposed to dump. It's stupid for anyone to contradict that. Any man in his right senses knows that if there is a sea running that tug can't go more than a few hundred yards offshore."

Afterward, in discussing beaches, council authorized

Councillor John Carey's parks committee to make a survey to determine whether or not there was sufficient public access to ocean waterfront and to the Gorge.

Council also endorsed a suggestion made by Victoria that a regional planning board be set up for the Greater Victoria area.

A request from St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church for use of Memorial Park for the annual church carnival on July 7 was granted.

Council sanctioned an Optimist Club peanut campaign later this month to raise money for boys' work. Council voted to reduce the regular pedlar's license fee from $25 to $1 to help the cause.

Italians Ask Truth About Bandit Death

ROME AP—The Italian Parliament is asking a new version of the old question: "Who killed Cock Robin?"

Members of the Chamber of Deputies demanded that Interior Minister Mario Scelba make known "the truth" about the slaying of the "Robin Hood" of Sicily, Salvatore Giuliano.

His name had become a legend by the time he was shot to death at the age of 28 in a mountain village hideout last July 1.

Special Carabinieri force Col. Ugo Luca was said to have "personally led" the operation which ended Giuliano's bandit career.

Not too many Italians were convinced.

Sicilians said Giuliano must have been betrayed and probably slain by members of his own band.

Lip-Smacking Chateau Snacks!

Chateau and Bacon... Spread split hamburger roll or bread with mellow-mild Chateau (it spreads, slices, melts to perfection). Top with bacon. Broil in the rich cheddar goodness has soaked in. Make plenty—the family or guests will go for them! Chateau adds taste-tantalizing goodness and protein nourishment to any snack or meal!

Chateau Sandwich Snacks... Since Chateau is not a sliced cheese you don't have to expose the whole package for a few slices. The remainder stays covered... stays fresh! Spread always-fresh Chateau on bread, then cover with any of these delightful variations: slices of hard-cooked egg; sliced boiled ham; chopped crisp bacon or salami... but remember always use Chateau to make sandwiches sing!

Port Alberni Child Flown To Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mercy flights Monday saved the life of a three-year-old boy and sped a woman to hospital in time to bear her child.

Dean Blake Boutillier was brought to Vancouver General Hospital from Port Alberni after he was found face downward and unconscious in a water-filled ditch near his home.

He was first taken to hospital at Port Alberni, where a tube was placed in his throat to allow him to breathe. On the trip over in an Associated Air Taxi plane, the boy was given oxygen and ether by a doctor.

A Vancouver doctor said the windpipe was apparently blocked by mud the boy had sucked into his throat.

The boy was reported in "fairly good" condition Monday night following an operation.

Another Associated Air Taxi pilot narrowly missed being a midwife on emergency flight from Davies Bay, Texada Island, to Comox.

Pilot Mac Willard said he thought Mrs. L. Gibb of Davies Bay was going to give birth to her child during the air trip. Mrs. Gibb had her child just after her arrival at Comox Hospital.

OWNER PAYS; DOG HADN'T READ THE LAW

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—
A court awarded $500 damages to James Arnold because a dog took more bites than he was entitled to.

The decree by Judge Godfrey Regan Monday affirmed a lower court's decision but upped the award from $300
to $500.

Judge Regan said the record showed:
Mrs. Anders Paulsen's calf
grazed in Arnold's bean patch. When Arnold refused to release it, Mrs. Paulsen appeared on the scene leading a dog on a leash. Mrs.
Paulsen commanded "get him Brownie" and Brownie got him with several large-size bites. Only one bite was legal.

'BLOOD NEED URGENT' Red Cross Launches Big Three-Way Drive Today

A concentrated donor enrollment campaign towards the collection of blood for the armed forces and civil defence needs, as well as for hospitals in Victoria and on the mainland, was launched by the Red Cross division here today.

Meanwhile, full public support of the blood donation appeal was urged by A. D. Turnbull, Minister of Health and Welfare.

"The need for blood is urgent,"
Mr. Turnbull said. "There is no reserve blood supply in case of an emergency in Victoria, and elsewhere in the province."

Red Cross officials here explained that they were using up about 100 points of blood in Victoria each day and they did not have enough to put aside in case of an emergency.

To build up a reserve blood supply, the Red Cross is launching a three-way drive today.

Good progress on the conversion of the B.C. Power Commission electrical supply in the Comox Valley was reported today.

Officials said the change-over from 25 to 60-cycle power should be completed by the end of the summer as scheduled.

Over 1,700 services have been converted at Courtenay already with approximately 50 remaining to be changed. Then there will be 1,200 customers to be given improved service in the Cumberland-Minto-Royston district.

Cross will open its clinic on Fort Street for donors this afternoon and will have it open between 7 and 9 tonight. They hope to collect 400 points of plasma.

The Red Cross division will also send a mobile clinic with technical staff to the Legislative Buildings Wednesday for members of the civil service who wish to donate their blood towards the campaign. The clinic there will be open from 1:30 to 5 in the afternoon.

Motorists Are Warned To Get License On Time

Motor vehicle licensing officials today suggested that Mr.
and Mrs. Motorist open wallets and purses and look at the license they hold.

Apparently many are forgetting to take out their new five-year drivers license on their birthday, and by not obtaining the "folder-type" card, are leaving themselves "in a nasty position if they get into difficulty."

Under the new five-year plan, persons with birthdays falling between Sept. and Feb. 28 were required to renew their licenses by Feb. 28. But those whose birthdays come between March 1 and
Aug. 31 need not obtain the new license until their birthday.

Issuing officers say many motorists in the latter group have been applying for their five-year card days, weeks and months after their birthday which means they have been driving without a "current-year" license.

sentenced to eight years for assaults on surrendered American prisoners-of-war.

When Bernard Gillie, principal of S. J. Willis Junior High, was talking to a group of parents a month or two ago, he described the reaction of youngsters to suggestions that the important thing in life wasn't necessarily the chase after big money.

"You can tell them," he said, "that there may be greater satisfactions than owning a brightly-colored Cadillac convertible. You can tell them that the kind of life Robert Taylor leads may not be the happiest, that good clothes and rich food aren't everything. You can tell them that, but the chances are they'll just look at you. The looks convey what they're too polite to say."

GILLIE WAS speaking in generalities, exaggerating to illustrate a point. At different seasons, Robert Taylor wouldn't hold a candle to Maurice "The Rocket" Richard or Ted Williams. And on other occasions, going to a big party or ball would be more important than having a sock full of money to the girls.

At the same time, Gillie put his argument across. The emphasis on material possessions today makes it hard for youngsters to realize the value of intangibles. They have to be a lot older than Junior High age to enjoy a true appreciation of spiritual values, even if fair play, generosity and friendliness are unconsciously respected by the youngsters.

Teachers in the different grades understand that. They realize part of their job is to plant a seed or two of appreciation beyond those apparent in a world so largely devoted to the flashier evidence of a high living standard. They know, too, that second only to the home, they can be the most effective influence in a child's life.

PARENTS ARE generally ready to admit the importance of the man or woman who stands before their children in class five hours a day five days a week. They'll give lip service to the ideal teacher—if there is such a person—at almost any time. It's only recently, however, that the people of this community have made it financially worthwhile for men and women to go into the profession. And when those who have devoted a lifetime to teaching retire, they find the pickings from superannuation rather lean.

You hear a lot of argument on that point these days. There's merit in it, but it's not a complete statement. The best teachers have their compensations, too. There are satisfactions that aren't measured in the pay envelopes that come from the school board office.

You're reminded of them when you read the opinions of such men as Bill Wilson and Arthur Hunkin, each of whom is winding up more than 40 years' service in the profession. The greatest satisfaction, says Hunkin, "is meeting the boys and girls and seeing them develop."

IT'S NOT HARD to understand that point of view. Every one, at some time, knows the joys of accomplishment. A man, laboring over a work bench in his basement, may turn out a piece of crude furniture that wouldn't find a market in a retail store downtown. At the same time, it's the product of a man's efforts and if it fills its function, he's entitled to be pleased with it.

How much greater the satisfaction of a teacher who may be able to see something of value developing in the human stuff put into his hands. How much finer, if, by his efforts, the product is shaped into a superior form.

You don't have to be what the world calls a success to look back on your own schooling and recall the influence of some teacher. You can remember an idea you were given—an idea that you kept and cherished. Maybe you bring to mind the man or woman who gave you an appetite for reading and the reflection that should follow it.

EVEN IF YOU never could stand "langwidge" your recollection will turn to someone whose teaching and example left an indelible impression.

They stand out in the years that are gone, the teachers you had. You see them still surrounded by the small clouds of glory your admiration and affection has built around them. You realize how much more they were than instructors who taught you subjects and tried to arouse in you an interest beyond that of passing an examination.

When you look back on it, you realize there wasn't so much difference between you and the youngsters Bern Gillie was talking about. You may not have fixed your sights on a Cadillac convertible, but you had equally as perishable goals. And while you had them, something else was being added by the teachers, something that wouldn't tarnish or wear out—something that brought satisfaction to men like Arthur Hunkin who watched the growth of the developing student.

One hurt as city accident follows high-speed chase.

$1,000 damage in Royal Oak crash.

14-Day Jail Terms Follow Two Accidents

A 22-year-old Greater Victoria man and a 23-year-old sailor attached to H.M.C.S. Cayuga, drivers of U-drive vehicles involved in two separate and violent collisions early today, received 14-day jail terms each in police court after pleading guilty to drunk driving charges.

One person was injured and $2,000 damage to cars resulted from the twin crashes of cars operated by John C. Crystal, of 878 Esquimalt Road, and Sailor William A. Kobes.

Crystal and Kobes also received one-year licence suspensions from Magistrate H. C. Hall. Edward Cooper, 512 Gore Street, a passenger in the Crystal car, suffering a back injury, was reported in good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital. Also in the car was James Thomas. They were reported to be on leave from their whereabouts.

NABBED AFTER CHASE Crystal was arrested after a high-speed chase by city police which ended with the Island U-Drive Co. car crashing into a telephone pole and ending up against a building at Discovery and Government Streets shortly after midnight.

Police said damage to the rented car will be more than $800. The chase covered several city blocks. Crystal at one point turned off his car lights in an effort to shake police.

Constables Norman Galbraith and Edward Hamer chased the rented car in one police vehicle while Constable Angus Stewart was manoeuvring in another to head it off when the crash occurred.

Kobes escaped serious injury when the Sylvester U-Drive Co. car he was driving crashed into a truck at Royal Oak corners, near Saanich police station, carried on for 103 feet and wound up crashing into a telephone pole on North Quadra Street.

The sailor, a veteran of the Korean war, fled the scene, Saanich police said. Constables Walter Mycock and Robin Stewart found him unhurt in the bushes by the roadside.

EMPIRE DAY FETES

Major Celebrations Open Tonight; Queen Crowning, Sunset Rite Slated

Major Empire Day celebrations in Victoria, starting tonight, will offer spectacular entertainment for all tastes, and will be climaxed with the grand parade on Thursday morning and a fireworks display at Beacon Hill Park Thursday night.

Impressive ceremonies have been arranged for tonight at the Parliament Buildings.

Following the traditional sunset ceremony of the Royal Canadian Navy band and precision squad, tonight at 8, the band will remain for the crowning of the May Queen at 9. Mayor Percy George will perform the coronation on the Parliament Buildings steps. May Queen Betty Dolman will be attended by Princesses Shirley Hallmark and Shirley Bovan, and Barbara Jones, Patricia Ann Robertson, Marlene Pearce, and Doreen Wells.

The Thursday parade, with the May Queen in the honor position, will leave assembly grounds at Royal Athletic Park at 10:15.

Route will be Cook, Pandora, Quadra, Yates, Douglas, Fisgard and Government Streets to dispersal at the Parliament Buildings.

Children will have their parts to play in the L.O.D.E. service Wednesday at 10:30 at the Parliament Buildings, school sports at Macdonald Park at 1:30, and in the Children's Garden Library show Thursday at 3 at 1210 Tattersall Drive.

Mrs. W. W. McGill is garden library director.

CANOE RACES

Boatmen will enjoy Indian canoe races and dashes by naval whalers at the Gorge Thursday at 2:15. Baseball fans will have four Athletics-Tacoma games to choose from. Cricketers will spend Thursday at Beacon Hill Park, and bicycle races and a horse show have been arranged.

For those who like dust and dash, a motorcycle rodeo Thursday at 2:45 at Macdonald Park should fill the bill.

The three-day celebration will be given a brilliant conclusion Thursday night at 10 when the City Hall Employees' Association will stage fireworks at Beacon Hill Park.

BUTTER PRICE GOES UP CENT IN VICTORIA

Victoria housewives today are paying a cent more for a pound of butter, which advanced Monday to 69-72 cents for grade A. Dealers said the price increase was in line with the prices of butter in other parts of the province.

A shortage of butter throughout Canada was blamed by dealers for the advance. There were only 29,000,000 pounds of butter in stock, as compared with 900,000,000 pounds for the same period last year, they said. Dealers said, however, that there would be no shortage as the spring supply of butter was expected to make itself felt shortly.

Meanwhile, buyers were switching more and more to margarine as butter prices increased, dealers said.

Growing Smoke Nuisance Causes Fresh Complaints

Fresh complaints about Victoria's growing smoke nuisance broke out today and there were indications City Council may again be asked soon to take up the question of abatement.

Oil and sawdust burners in the midtown area and mill smoke in the outer sections give this famed tourist city a smoky appearance, especially on days of little or no wind.

Homeowners complain the soot is coating their houses. Housewives are bitter about the black film that collects on their washing.

Pedestrians say the soot clings to their clothes and makes necessary repeated laundering and washing.

The northern section of the city has been hit hardest by the mill smoke. Residents of the area today were considering forming a ratepayers' association to demand action be taken. They said they had presented petitions to City Council on the subject.

Victoria has a smoke abatement by-law which provides for prosecution, they pointed out, but it has been rarely enforced. Many mills have screens, but some are believed not fine enough.

Phone Workers Will Study Wage Increase

A B.C. Telephone Company offer of a 10 per cent wage increase to its 3,200 employees may be reconsidered by the bargaining committee of the Federation of Telephone Workers of B.C. at a negotiation meeting scheduled next Monday in Vancouver, it was learned today.

Both company and union are anxious to have agreement reached on a new wage scale before the end of May. Negotiations have been in progress for several months.

The company's 10 per cent offer was made in answer to requests from the federation for an even higher salary boost.

The Telephone Workers' Federation, a non-affiliate body, bargains for all employees of the firm in plant, traffic and clerical departments.

Youths To See Tennis Film

Victoria's young tennis hopefuls will get a chance to pick up many new pointers at a showing of a film, "Bill Tilden's Advanced Tennis," at 7 Wednesday night at the Badminton Hall of the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, officials announced today.

The film is being shown in conjunction with the tennis clinic at the club sponsored by the Victoria Daily Times.

The Daily Times' tennis clinic for youngsters will be climaxed June 2, 3 and 4 with a tourney for three age classes, those under 12, under 15 and under 18.

Bridge Project Major Headache To City Council

Plans for the proposed new Point Ellice Bridge may be in Victoria by Saturday, Maj. J. R. Grant, consulting engineer of Vancouver, told the Victoria Daily Times in a telephone interview.

Belief that the city, if it is to get a new Point Ellice Bridge, may have to go the full cost alone, is being expressed in some civic circles today.

"I feel we are not going to get a nickel from either senior government," said one source.

REAL HEADACHE While pressure is growing particularly in Victoria West for a new bridge, aldermen are trying to probe the financial facts. Council is on the horns of a dilemma. It wants a new bridge as soon as possible, but must face what cost the taxpayer will stand.

Fears have been expressed that borrowing the estimated $500,000 to $600,000 for a new bridge might be pushing the city's unused borrowing power too close to the limit for normal safety.

These are the latest developments in the bridge issue, which is council's No. 1 problem of the year.

Recommendation for a new bridge was raised about six weeks before the last civic election. Following elaboration of plans and resultant increased cost, council hoped to obtain two-thirds of the cost from provincial and federal governments.

The mayor has already requested the federal government for $200,000, with no indications of getting it. While the provincial government has not been officially approached, unofficial "probing" has not been "encouraging," according to reports.

Whether the bridge question will simmer in debate through the summer and boil up to become a big issue at the December elections is anybody's guess.

QUESTION LIST Lacking the full financial facts, Mayor Percy George said he could not give a firm opinion. The following questions he said would have to be answered for council:

1. Has the city to carry the cost alone?
2. How close is the city to the limit of its borrowing power?
3. What will be the cost to the public over a 20-year period?
4. What will it add to taxes each year?
5. What of the federal government's request to restrict spending?
6. Regardless of estimates of cost, is the city to be faced with starting a project at a period when costs may spiral to double the estimate?

If the city had to borrow $500,000 on a 20-year amortization plan, at 4 per cent interest per annum, annual cost to the city of combined principal and interest would be close to $37,000.

Civil Service Pay Ruling Imminent

Provincial Cabinet Expected To Announce Decision Tomorrow

British Columbia's 8,000 civil servants may have extra reasons for celebrating their May 24 holiday. They expect to learn Wednesday the results of negotiations between the executive of their association and the provincial cabinet on a 15 per cent across-the-board salary increase requested last February.

Taxpayers Will Learn Where '51 Dollar Goes

City To Send Out Notices To 14,000

First tax bills will go out from City Hall this week with an accompanying pamphlet to show 14,000 taxpayers where their 1951 tax dollar goes. The breakdown of the dollar is also outlined on the actual tax notice and it is the first time this has been done.

Schools; fire, police and street lighting and debt charges are the three top items of expense to the city taking a total of 47.5 per cent of the tax dollar.

Here is the breakdown:
Schools.....18.4
Fire, Police, Street Lighting.....15.2
Debt Charges (net).....13.9
Streets, Bridges.....10.4
Social Welfare.....8.8
Water Supply.....8.2
General Government.....7.4
Sanitation and Garbage.....6.6
Services.....6.6
Parks and Recreation.....6.2
Public Health and Hospital.....2.9
Care.....2.0
Miscellaneous.....2.0

It is the first time the city has ever broken the dollar down in this way," said Assessor-Collector A. C. Joyce.

It will take about two weeks to complete sending out of tax notices, Mr. Joyce said.

In addition to the dollar table, the pamphlet contains a summary of the approved estimates for 1951, with details of the 55 mill levy.

New Span Opens

LAKE COWICHAN — A temporary pile bridge carrying two-way traffic across Cowichan River, to replace the span which collapsed May 9, has been built beside the old bridge. A permanent bridge will be built this summer.

HOLIDAY FOR SOME

Odd June 4 Ruling

A long holiday week-end is in store for the celebration of the King's birthday this year. It was confirmed at the Legislative Buildings today that Mon-

The cabinet held a special meeting on the question last Wednesday and it is understood a decision was reached at a second meeting today. No hint of the decision was given, though, pending a meeting with officials of the civil servants' association tomorrow afternoon.

Members of the association who will meet the cabinet are David Monk, president; E. P. O'Connor, executive secretary; R. C. Bennett, assistant secretary, and Carl Hauck, first vice-president.

The association officials said the prime concern of the government employees was more take-home pay. They said it was not intended to press for a five-day week on a trial basis requested earlier, or three weeks' holiday with pay after one year of service.

Phone 'Merger' Seen By 1952

Conversion of Albion, Colquitz and Belmont telephones into part of the Greater Victoria dial system is expected to be completed by the end of 1952, R. W. J. Angus, Victoria commercial manager for B.C. Telephone Company, revealed today.

At the present time, $265,000 program of cable work is being carried out by the company, to provide service for 2,600 waiting customers and to set up trunk lines for the conversion project.

Soldier Strikes Girl

Miss Dorothy Gaylor, 1162 Yates Street, told city police today that while she was en route home late Saturday night she was chased by a soldier who overtook her near her home. Then struck her and fled when she screamed for help.

'DEAR SIR: I'LL BE THERE'

One of the briefest acceptance ever received at Government House greeted Capt. J. G. Cromack, private secretary to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, when he opened the mail today.

Answering an invitation to one of the many functions at Government House, the unnamed correspondent wrote: "Dear Sirs, I will be there."

Mabel, Sam Go Picnicking
With Car Packed With Food
By PENNY SAVER

The Slapsaddles enjoyed their first picnic of the year, this fine Sunday! A statement not entirely unusual at this season. The only unusual things are the Slapsaddles, themselves.

Some people prepare for a picnic by assembling a few sandwiches, thermoses of coffee or tea, perhaps a bottle of milk, and a bottle of water for the family pooch.

But the Slapsaddles? Nah, they have to have an organized banquet with guest speaker, before they call it a picnic.

Take, for instance, that ice box they pack with them. A beautiful deal, mind you, for it keeps the vegetables and meats lusciously cool. Only hitch is that it takes up a generous portion of the back seat, in their very small-type auto. After having made out your cushion for a number of miles, en route, you sort of get those polar bear blues!

As for the food... well, Sam has an allergy. Course you've heard that anyone without an allergy is unfashionable these days. Anyone that's anybody at all, has an allergy! So Sam's got a dill of an allergy. This boy's diet reads like the small print on an advertisement for dog food!

Mabel tells me she's going to be smart about the crockery this year. In fact, she's not going to use any at all, at all! Oh, they won't all eat out of the same pot for she's got herself a neat little set of dishes and drinking mugs, built especially for such occasions.

I've seen the sets selling for something like $2.98, and they really are neat.

In the complete set you'll find four drinking mugs, and four 10-inch dinner plates. Each plate has four sections and an extra groove where the mug or tumbler may sit. In all the spring colors of red, blue, green and yellow it makes colorful setting even if there is a bit of sand thrown in for good measure.

Nylon plastic is coming into its own for outdoor or hard use. Extremely pliable with more bounce than a bad cheque, the tumblers range from a small size to a jumbo, 6 inches. Prices for the square-bottomed cups, from 7 to 15 to 20 cents each.

Hey, there, spring decorators... for those putting in new linoleum, that is! There's a hefty knife made just for the job. Hooked, and built with a strong wooden handle, the knife sells for 95 cents. There's a smaller number for 49 pennies.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Use Same Motions To Swim
Or For Dry Land Exercise

Here are two exercises which will help you with your swimming and also are splendid for your figure.

1. Lie on the floor on your back, with your arms resting on the floor a little away from your sides and your legs straight. Bend both knees up close to your abdomen. Separate your legs as you straighten them and lower them to the floor. The legs are now apart. Drag them together, keeping your knees stiff. Again bend, separate, straighten and lower to floor. Drag together. This is similar to the leg action in the breast stroke and is one of my combination exercises. It is good for thighs, inner leg line, and abdomen.

2. Lie on the floor on your back with your arms resting on the floor at your sides and your legs straight. Lift your left leg from the floor. Bring it as high up as you can with a stiff knee. As you lower the left leg, raise the right. One leg moves upward as the other moves down. After starting this exercise do not touch the floor but bring your heels close to the floor. This is similar to the flutter kick in the crawl, and is fine for the hips and the stomach. Do it a few times, then rest and repeat.

You can do this same exercise in a little different way with fine results in building the lower abdominal wall which is so important to women. Do the same thing with the exception that you raise the heels only a very short distance from the floor, only about four inches.

These three exercises will do much for the beauty of abdomen, inner leg, thighs and hips and will also get you in practice for learning or improving the crawl or the breaststroke. Practice them whether you swim or not.

If you would like to have my leaflet which gives you instructions for learning to dive, as a beginner, or improving some of the well-known dives, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 22, "Learning to Swim." Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

When It Comes To Mosh-Proof-ing (and now's the time of year!)—I do just what the big woolen mills do... mothproof with LARVEX. No need to wrap and store winter clothes out of reach of moths. One Larvex spraying actually mothproofs the cloth for a whole year. And Larvex is "certain-ure." Moths will starve to death rather than eat anything treated with it! It's so quick—just spray the garment with Larvex and hang it in its usual place—ready for immediate wear—for there's no tell-tale odor at all! Larvex is inexpensive, too. Costs as much as "Larvex" suit than to have it dry-cleaned!

Something Well-Dressed Women Should Know... the secret of keeping your wardrobe daisy-fresh—inexpensively. Here's how! Use ENERGINE CLEANING FLUID to remove grease spots—even fresh paint, tar on-clothing gum—from fabrics of every kind. It's quick—it's easy—and it's so safe. For Engerine contains no acids nor caustics whatsoever... won't harm the most delicate fabrics or affect the colour of fast-dyed materials—leaves no tell-tale ring or clinging odor. Yes, Engerine is a real investment because it saves cleaner's bills—saves time and bother, too. For jiffy-quick, satisfying results, just follow simple directions. At drug and department stores for as little as 25c.

Is Your Family the kind that "skips" breakfast? Well, you can make breakfast a meal they won't want to miss—by serving luscious, smooth-as-satin 5 Minute "CREAM OF WHEAT"! It's so easy to prepare. Just five minutes of boiling and it's ready to eat—the delicious reason for coming to breakfast! And "Cream of Wheat" gives you Iron, Calcium and Phosphorus for diets deficient in these elements. No wonder the "Cream of Wheat" habit is such a good family habit—such a wonderful way to begin the day! Remember, the words "Cream of Wheat" and the smiling chef on the package are registered trade marks of The Cream of Wheat Corp. and Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

A New Treat... and a wonderful treat, is BIRDS EYE Concentrated Lemonade! It has that delicious sunny-tart tang—for my money, even better than home-queened lemonade! You see, it's the concentrated juice of sun-ripened lemons, sweetened and quick-frozen. It takes just 30 seconds to fix six glasses—that's a pint and two-thirds... imagine! Do keep a supply in the ice box... what you don't drink will keep for days. I always keep it handy for myself, for the family, and for company. Try it—and if you don't agree it's the best lemonade you ever tasted the Birds Eye people will give you money back!

Guest speaker of the evening, Mrs. Richardson, stressed the importance of working and thinking internationally. "This order was founded as an international order," she said, "and we have worked together internationally. We have worked in peace for more than 100 years," she said, "and if we continue to do so, we may in some way point an example to those who are striving for the same peace and understanding in world affairs."

The order is also working to build "the four-square walls of responsible citizenship," the speaker pointed out and then described those walls as integrity, reverence, love or truth and a sense of responsibility.

At each temple a cluster of orange blossoms were arranged to hold the wedding veil of illusion net. Her father gave her in marriage.

Blondes Get Wolf Howls In Rio, Liz Scott Finds

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (INEA)—Next time Elizabeth Scott goes scouting around Latin-America, she'll wear a dark wig. The sleek-haired wolverine gave her the oh-you-kid howl from the word go when she showed her golden tresses at the festival in Uruguay.

"They go crazy, absolutely crazy, about a blonde," shivered Liz. "But if you're a blonde and an actress—wow!"

She's still got a case of jumping nerves over being surrounded by half the population of Rio de Janeiro on the morning she decided to get the Scott frame sunburned on the beach.

"Who knows? Maybe I'll do burlesque before my career's over."

Jane Wyman musing out loud about her acting.

It's just that she doesn't have any kind of emoting blueprint laid out for herself, Jane wants it known, and doesn't care whether she's laughing it up or wringing out handkerchiefs on the screen.

"If it comes along and it's right," she says, "I'll do it." So far this year she's shuttled between comedy like "Here Comes the Groom" and her current assignment, "The Blue Veil," which falls on the heavy side.

A sequel to "Three Guys Named Mike" for Jane?

"I haven't heard anything about it. I'll probably do the life of Charles Laughton next."

Olivia de Havilland is telling pals that Hollywood will take second place in her affections to her new love—the theatre. She decided to take "Romeo and Juliet" on the road in the fall.

Wald Gives Down-To-Earth Reasons For 'Hollycide'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Film bigwigs asked to take cuts up to 50 per cent."

"Deal to sell Warner Bros. holdings folds."

"134 southern California theatres now dark."

Headlines such as these have

TWO MEMBERS of cast of "The Male Animal" to be presented by U.B.C. Players' Club, May 26, at Victoria High School auditorium at 8.30. Philip Keatley as Prof. Turner is more engrossed in literature as his wife, Sheila Cameron, tries to attract some attention. Tickets may be obtained at Marionette Library, Douglas Street.

brought confusion to people outside the movie industry and those inside, too. For an analysis of the movie business tils I went to Jerry Wald. With co-producer Norman Krasna, he just signed a deal with R.K.O. boss Howard Hughes to make $50,000,000 worth of pictures in the next five years.

Wald coined a new word for Hollywood's troubles.

"I call it 'Hollycide,'" he said. "By that I mean we are scaring ourselves to death by every new symptom of industry unrest. This is no time for despair. We've got to return to the things that made this business great—imagination, showmanship, energy, excitement."

COMMENTS ON STORIES

The producer commented on some of the recent news stories. About the salary cuts for 20th-Fox executives: "Fox has a problem of getting down its negative costs. Now I understand it's down to $1,300,000 per picture, but it has to go lower than that. We expect our pictures to average $750,000."

About the Warners wanting to sell out: "Maybe they were just tired and didn't care anymore."

About theatre closings: "The reason is Hollywood's fault. We simply haven't supplied a consistently entertaining program of films."

BRIDGE LESSON

by Oswald Jacoby

Probably each of us knows some bridge player who plays by hunch, and most of us wish we didn't. A hunch is that strange instinct that tells a bridge player he's right—whether he is or not.

When today's hand was actually played, South had a hunch that the king of trumps would drop. He took the opening lead in dummy with the ace of clubs, finessed the queen of spades, and then confidently banged down the ace of spades.

This brilliant manoeuvre did declare no good at all. He had to lose a trump, a diamond, and two clubs.

Do I hear somebody say that the contract must be lost anyway? Look again, for South can make four spades if he plays the hand properly.

Correct play is to win the first body else will be in the lead, and South must surely make both his ace and his jack of trumps.

GUEST STAR at Children's Garden Library program May 24 at 3 will be Donald Garford, brilliant 21-year-old West Vancouver baritone, who will sing sacred and secular selections. Show will be held at 1210 Tattersall Drive under patronage of Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Clarence Wallace and other dignitaries to aid Save the Children European Relief Fund. Pupils of Wynne Shaw Dance Studio will play major part in program, and children of Saanich schools will present fairy pageant.

Youth Suicides

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP)—The body of 13-year-old George Silverstein was found hanging in a school locker room yesterday. The coroner pronounced the death a suicide.

Mrs. Gladys Thomas, head nurse of the city school system, said the seventh-grade pupil had been reprimanded for gum-chewing and had not been allowed to take part in the gymnasium period.

COPS WERE LOSERS

Intervened In Battle

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—This college town's cops complained today about the shattering they took in a water fight riot Monday night involving 5,000 Ohio State University students.

None of the rioters was injured in the off-campus brawl, but 10 students, including one girl, were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct and later released on bond.

One police officer lost his trousers and the shirt was ripped of another during the four-hour struggle with the shouting mob.

The riot started when football star Walter Kievey strolled too close to a waterfront going between Pi Beta Phi and Kappa Alpha Theta sorority circles. A coed doused him with water and several fraternity brothers rushed to his rescue.

The word spread through other fraternity houses and the battle of the sexes was on.

Police rushed 11 patrol cars to the scene at 15th and High Streets, but students poured water on the oncoming officers, who retaliated with tear gas bombs.

Seek Site For 'Down Under' Field

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—Australia is working to improve its southern hemisphere air communications.

Thirteen experts are to search the Cocos Islands in the Indian Ocean near the equator for a possible landing field on a route to South Africa. They will set out from Sydney Thursday. The new service may get going this year.
